Northwest Community OKs abortions

by JOE SWICKARD

Northwest Community Hospital's board of directors Tuesday voted to allow abortions to be performed in the first three months of pregnancy.

Hospital Pres. Malcolm MacCoun said the vote reverses the hospital's previous policy of permitting abortions only in cases where the mother's life was endangered by the pregnancy.

MacCoun said the new policy was a reflection of community feeling that the hospital should make itself available for the procedure when agreed upon by a woman and her doctor.

"The reason for the policy change is the fact that a number of people feel a community hospital should serve the whole community," he said.

"The majority of community hospitals in the area have been moving in this direction," he said.

THE NEW POLICY does not mean "abortion on demand" at the hospital, MacCoun said. Nor does it make it mandatory for doctors and nurses of the hospital to participate in the operation, he said.

The decision opens the hospital's doors to those doctors and their patients wishing to have an abortion performed there, he said.

"The hospital, per se, does not provide the service in the case of abortions anymore than it does in the case of an appendix removal or hernia surgery," he said.

Although abortions are now permitted at the hospital, he said it would "take a little while" for the procedures and technical aspects to worked out.

The hospital's previous ban on abortions, except in life-threatening situations, had been in effect prior to the 1973 ruling legalizing them by the U.S. Supreme Court.

IN 1974, Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge became the first area hospital to allow abortions.

At the same time, Northwest Community Hospital reaffirmed its anti-abortion stance, although some doctors there had voted to permit the operation.

The hospital's 1974 stand drew sharp criticism from State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights.

"Hospitals that do not permit a woman and her doctor to make a medical decision of this nature are not being responsive to the public they serve," Mrs. Chapman said at that time.

She could not be reached for comment on the hospital's new policy.

DOREEN ROHR, of the Society for the Preservation of Human Dignity, said of the hospital's announcement, "It saddens me. It makes it more convenient for a woman to make a quick decision (she might later regret)."

Mrs. Rohr said her organization, which operates a telephone counseling service for women considering abortions, will "intensify our efforts in offering alternatives to abortions."

She said there would be no direct action or protest against the hospital.

"We don't get involved in the political end of this," Mrs. Rohr said.

Calderwood tells of July 30 plan to resign post

by BILL HILL

Police Chief L. W. Calderwood Tuesday submitted his resignation effective July 30 after 18 years at the helm of the Arlington Heights Police Dept.

Calderwood, who joined the Arlington Heights Police Dept. in January 1958, will have completed 48 years of police work when he retires.

"I took a job as a policeman for a temporary job 48 years ago when I was an undergrad at Northwestern University. Now I'm looking for my permanency in life," the 72-year-old chief said with a smile Tuesday.

The search for Calderwood's replacement will begin immediately with the selection process expected to take 8 to 10 weeks," Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said.

"WE HOPE to have a replacement as near as possible to July 30," Hanson said.

Calderwood's official letter of resignation ends months of speculation about his plans for retiring.

He said the announcement "shouldn't be a surprise. "I told Mr. Hanson last fall that I would retire in July," Calderwood said.

Calderwood took the Arlington Heights post in 1958 after serving on the Evanston Police Dept. for 29 years. At that time, the Arlington Heights Police Dept. was housed in several rooms at the old village hall located where the Vail Avenue Jewel food store now stands.

IN HIS LETTER of resignation, Calderwood cites various programs

Panel to screen applicants for police chief job

A five-man interviewing committee will be formed to screen applicants for the vacancy to be created by the retirement of Police Chief L. W. Calderwood.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson Tuesday said the committee will include the village's three-member Fire and Police Commission and two police administrators from outside the Northwest suburban area.

Outside applicants for Calderwood's position will be encouraged, according to Hanson.

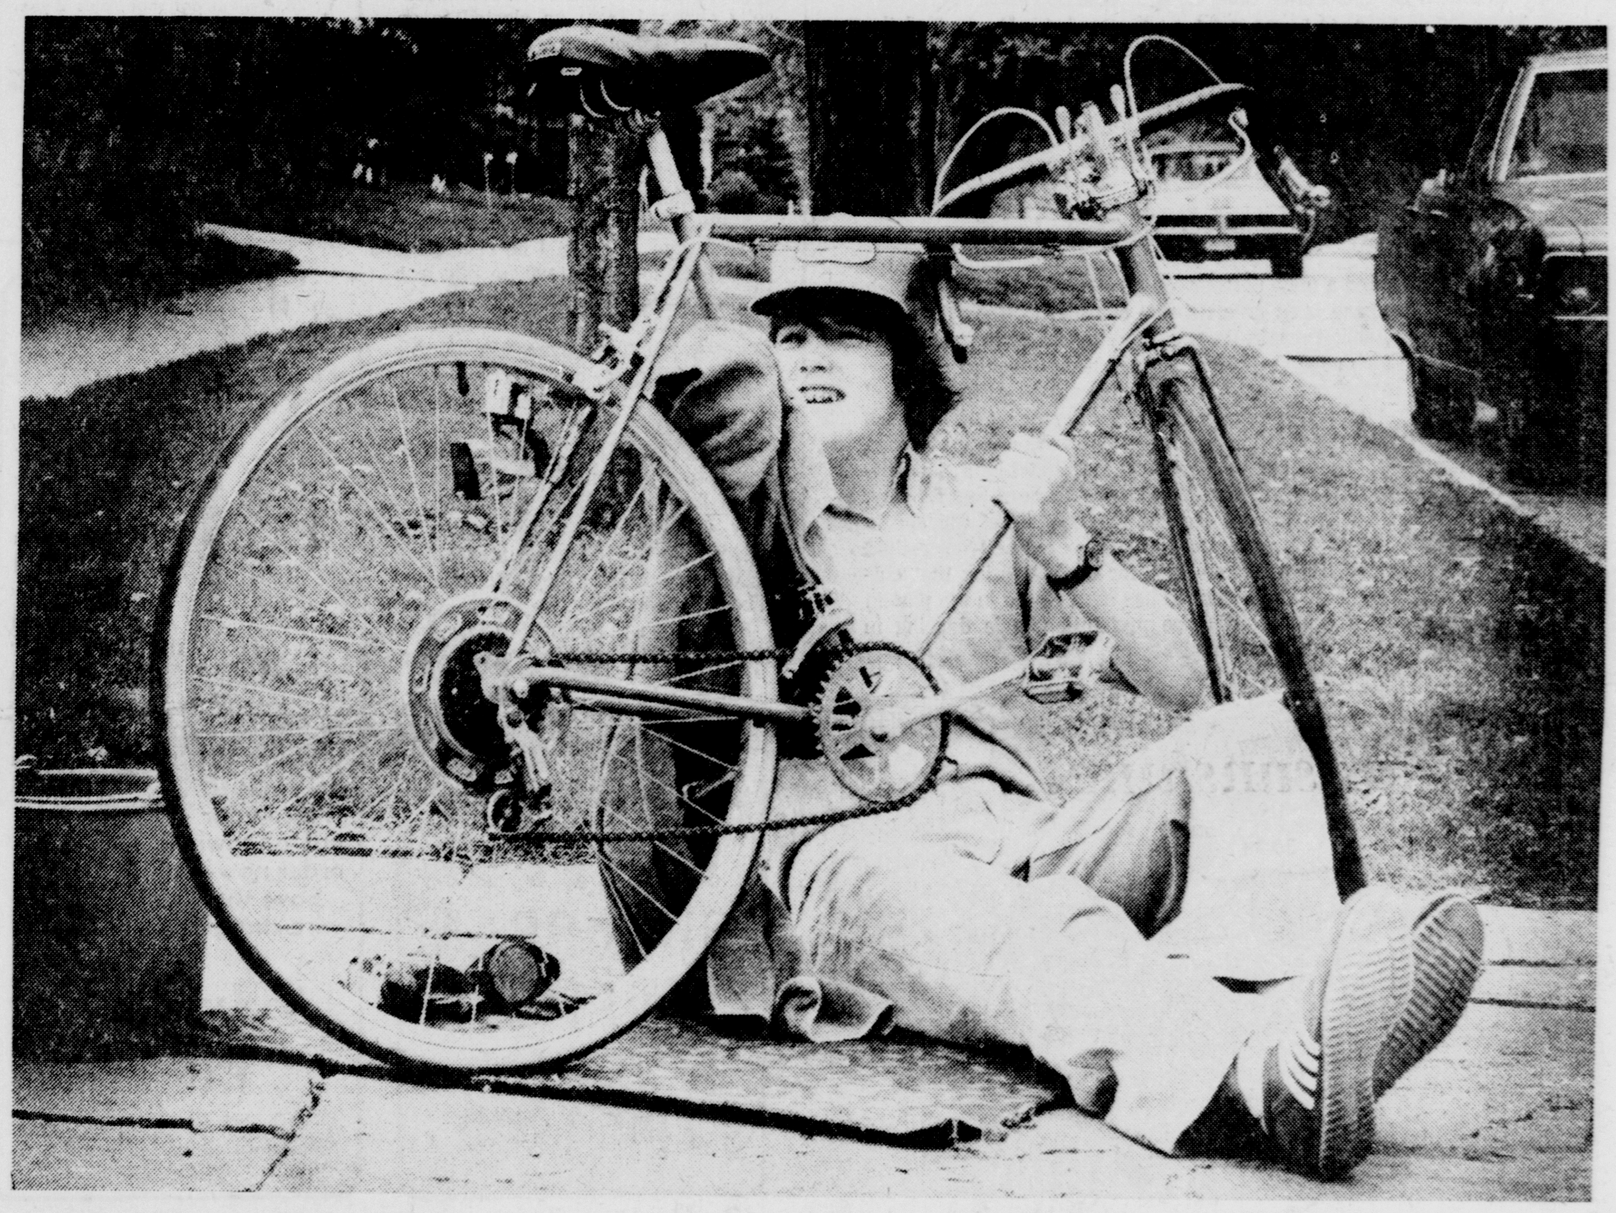

"We are not indicating by that that we don't have well-qualified people within our department, but this will give us the opportunity to measure all the people qualified, so we can hire the best chief of police for the community," Hanson said.

VILLAGE PRES. James T. Ryan said Tuesday the village should conduct "an active search for the best man available."

"Geography should be no barrier," he said.

The screening committee will be assigned the responsibility of selecting

34 killed in Virgin Islands air crash

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands (UPI) — An American Airlines Boeing 727 tourist jetliner missed its landing approach, overshot a runway, crashed into a gas station and exploded Tuesday, killing 34 persons.

Henlen Banfield, administrator of Knud Hansen Hospital, said rescuers discovered the bodies of 33 persons in the tangled and burned wreckage.

Another person on the ground was killed by the plane as it lurched across a highway smashing a passing vehicle and plowing into the gas station and two other buildings.

Mrs. Banfield said several of the 55 passengers and crew who survived the wreck were in serious condition, most of them suffering severe burns.

The three-engine jet, largest aircraft permitted to land on the 5,000-foot runway at Harry Truman International Airport, was American's flight 625, originating at Providence, R.I., with a stop at Kennedy Airport in New York.

Civil Defense workers suspended their search of the wreckage about 7 p.m. Chicago time, although they said some of the dead were still wedged in the fuselage of the aircraft, chopped in two by the crash.

A Civil Defense spokesman said there was still a possibility that additional bodies could be found in the destroyed buildings. They said the search would resume in the morning.

The plane carried 81 passengers, among them three infants, and seven crew members.

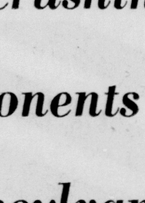

Robert Brigden of New Canaan, Conn., bound with his wife for a vacation on the neighboring island of St.

'Beechwood Boutique' not your ordinary garage sale

Today

Mike Klein's people

Garage sales usually are nothing more than a good excuse for dumping stupid presents from last Christmas.

You might see a garage sale any place that you see a garage. One requires the other.

The sales creep up in great numbers each spring, spill out upon streets, cultivate our national economy and then crawl back into the house to begin accumulating more things for next year.

There is an entire segment of humanity known as Garage Sale Groupies. They drive around with pained facial expressions of "Gotta buy some junk."

Many groupies drive here from the Lake Michigan shoreline suburbs and have a special name for this junk. They call it "antiques."

ANOTHER THING you find at garage sales is people who own the garages.

They are sometimes found sitting hunched over on chairs, puffing cigarets, drinking coffee and reminding you of something on exhibit in the Field Museum.

But at some sales, the garage owners are more alert. These persons are known as "Eagle Eyed People Pouncers" and just watch everyone, as if you might steal their junk.

That is what makes the "Beechwood Boutiue" in Buffalo Grove such a wonderful garage sale. It's not like some others. This one is fun.

You can see just how much fun starting at 7 o'clock Thursday evening. That's when six garage doors containing remnants from 32 households will open on Beechwood Road, just north of Buffalo Grove High School.

Thursday is a special evening for the good people of Beechwood. They're staging a "Thank You" bake sale with all proceeds being donated to the Buffalo Grove Fire Dept. paramedics.

"BEECHWOOD BOUTIQUE" will continue through Saturday with 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. sessions the second and third days.

It's become quite an event since nine families pooled their belongings in one garage six years ago.

Antique dealers always hang around on opening night. "Last year, one stood outside my garage begging to get inside before 7 o'clock," said Kathy Connors. "He had his son with him. They knew what they were looking for."

There's always been a special theme for the annual "Beechwood Boutique." This spring, it's "Spirit of America." American flags plus red, white and blue streamers will be displayed outside each home.

And the good people of Beechwood Road will be dressed like colonists. They're always doing something crazy.

Why, just last year, Arnold Schmidt entertained all the children with his guitar and harmonica. Kathy Parks dressed as a clown once.

TWO SPRINGS AGO, during "Christmas in May," all the homes were dressed in holiday lights. Richard Zornow wore Santa Claus garb. But there were high winds and the plastic Christmas trees blew around helter skelter.

They settled upon a Wild West theme last year. It was "Frontier Town." Peter Eshoo dressed as Black Bart, the notorious character.

But they're still talking about Super Moose up and down Beechwood Road. He was a real, dead, stuffed moose donated three years ago by Marilyn Milewski.

Super Moose was strapped to a lamp post and got all sorts of attention. Two young men finally bought him and proclaimed they would use Super Moose as a fra-

Senate, voters next

House OKs school chief change

BY DOROTHY OLIVER

A proposed constitutional amendment which would abolish the state board of education and replace the appointed superintendent of schools with an elected superintendent was narrowly approved by the Illinois House of Representatives Tuesday.

the resolution, which now must pass the Senate, was approved in the House 108-57. Passage of a constitutional amendment requires 107 votes.

The resolution's sponsor, State Rep. Dwight P. Friedrich, R-Centralia, said he wants to return the selection of the state school's superintendent "to the people. Here we are now under the guise of taking (the selection of the superintendent) out of politics and we are really taking it away from the people."

FRIEDRICH ALSO said education in the state "was great under the old system, but now it's going steadily downhill. Now we have a man appointed by people who have been appointed. And I thought it was very ironic that we had to go out of the state of Illinois to get someone to tell us how to run education in Illinois."

Supt. Joseph P. Cronin, former superintendent of education in Massachusetts, was appointed by the Illinois Board of Education in 1975. Michael Bakalis was the last elected state superintendent. He is currently a Democratic candidate for state comptroller. The state board is appointed by the governor.

Friedrich charged that Cronin "is not as responsive to the people of Illinois" as an Illinois resident would be. He also said that some representatives that voted in favor of the resolution said the superintendent's office is a "dictatorial thing.

"Everything is fed from the top down instead of from the bottom up," said Friedrich, who said local districts now have little say in education policies.

"The threat is over their head that they will lose their state money if they don't abide by the rules of the king," he said.

SOME OBSERVERS said Tuesday that Cronin and the state board have alienated some legislators by withholding funds from school districts whose school desegregation plans do not meet state and federal requirements. Chicago, Peoria, East St. Louis and other downstate school districts have been told to come up with new desegregation plans.

Cronin said he doesn't take the House resolution personally. "This bill has appeared in previous years and probably will again for a few years," Cronin said. He said when Massachusetts changed from an elected to an appointed schools superintendent and board of education "we had this type of bill for the first five years."

"The issue is whether the state superintendent should be returned to partisan politics or be above all that," Cronin said.

State board member Jack Witkowsky said, "It would be regressive to go back to the old system that was filled with political implications."

He said the state board has done "a fantastic job. They haven't given this baby very long to grow up" since the state board has only been operating for 16 months.

WITKOWSKY SAID Chicago representatives, the majority of whom voted for the resolution, "might feel they would be in a better position to control the elected superintendent of schools better than they could control a board of education."

State Sen. Bradley Glass, R-Northbrook, a member of the Senate Education Committee, said he would oppose the resolution when it comes before the senate.

"I think we need a longer time to give the new system a fair trial period," Glass said. "I would hope the Senate Education Committee will get a full hearing on this."

Friedrich said the Senate must approve the resolution by Sunday in order for it to be on the ballot in the general election Nov. 2. If the amendment is approved by voters, a state superintendent will be elected in November 1977 and will take office in January 1978.

Arlington Hts. police chief to retire July 30

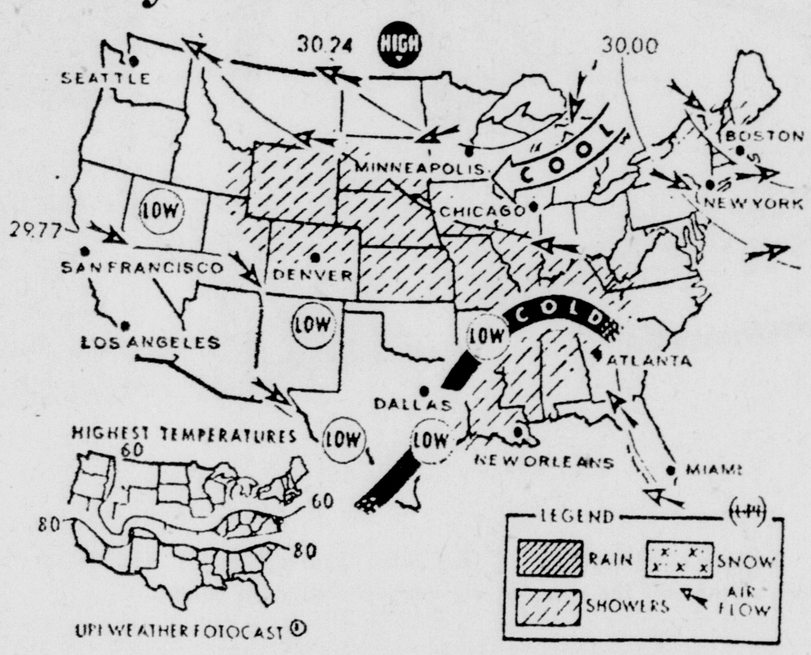

L. W. Caldersood

Arlington Heights Police Chief L. W. Calderwood will retire July 30 ending 48 years of police work. Calderwood, 72, has headed the village police department since January 1958. Previously, he had served 29 years on the Evanston Police Dept. Arlington Heights was recently recognized in a book, "America's 50 Safest Cities," in which the village was commended for having the lowest crime rate in Illinois and ranked 15th in the nation, Calderwood said in his resignation letter.

5 charged in drink bait scheme

Four women and a male bartender at the Roman House nightclub near Wheeling have been arrested and charged with participating in a scheme to solicit drinks from customers. An undercover Lake County Sheriff's deputy reported he had been solicited by three dancers and a waitress. The dancers had promised a "good time" and offered to "get better acquainted" if the deputy would buy then drinks, according to sheriff's police. Arrested were dancers Sandra Michaelle Hunt, 21; Nellie L. McKinney, 26, and Linda Sue Diamond, 20, all of Chicago. Also arrested were Tamara Sue Hendey, 26, of Justice, a waitress, and Charles F. Coco, 29, of Chicago, a bartender. Ms. Hunt told police that in addtion to her $60-per-night salary for dancing, she received $1.20 for each $7 drink that customers bought for her. The nightclub has been raised in the past in connection with a county ordinance prohibiting nude dancing in places that serve alcoholic beverages.

34 killed in Virgin Islands plane crash

Croix, was treated for a hand injury and minor cuts at the airport. He described the crash.

"The plane came down hard and bounced," he said. "I heard the engines roar, as if the pilot were trying to hold the plane. Then it just all of a sudden started breaking up and the flames started to come up," Brigden said.

"There was panic," he said. "No question about it.

"The flames just started to go. Youcould see the front of the plane just fold away."

Pam Stone, of Detroit, said,

"I know we still had our seat belts buckled and I lost my shoes and my glasses somewhere and my purse is in there.

"All I know is that we scrambled out . . . we fell out the door," she said. "The first thing I remember is one lady crying for her daughter."

Virgin Islands Red Cross spokesman Jerome Saul said the pilot, identified by the New York-based airline as Capt. Arthur Bujnowski, escaped unharmed, as did copilot and First Officer E. R. Offchiss and Flight Engineer Don C. Mestler.

The three dropped to safety when the plane's nose broke off in the crash, Saul said.

A U.S. Coast Guard helicopter transported two critically burned passengers to the San Juan Medical Center in Puerto Rico when facilities at Charlotte Amalie ran out of room.

Those who were stunned or suffered minor injuries were quickly removed from the hospital here to Bluebeard's Castle, a local tourist hotel.

The plane oversot the runway and tried to pull up.

Suddenly a wing dipped, the plane veered sharply and crashtd into a Shell gasoline station. It broke in two and exploded, coming to rest at a nearby rum factory.

A spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board in Washington said the jetliner apparently aborted its landing and either "never got back off the ground or just barely did." The spokesman said the safety board was rushing a nine-man team, headed by William R. Haley, to St. Thomas to investigate the crash.

Virgin Islands sources said the last crash at the airport occurred in 1968 when a Trans Carribean Airlines 727 veered out of control in an accident similar to Tuesday's, killing several passengers, includng the plot.

The crash came in the wake of several recent visits by congressional officials who are considering some $50 million to expand the 5,000-foot runway at Charlotte Amalie. Construction has been delayed by financing problems and difficulties in finding a site.

The airport runway, which begins directly at the sea at one end and approaches the mountains at the other, has been considered inadequate by avation authorities for some years.

"There were bodies inside and outside the plane," the airport spokesman said. "Some of the passengers were walking around outside, dazed, trying to find their way to the hospital."

The spokesman said residents near the airport rushed to the scene within minutes of the explosion and helped pull bodies from the flaming wreckage.

An aiprort spokesman in St. Thomas said: "The runway here is very short and you have to slam your brakes on very fast. The plane came in, then veered off the runway. One wing dipped and the nose went over."

Carter crushing opponents in Pennsylvania primary

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Jimmy Carter apparently won his seventh and most important primary in Pennsylvania Tuesday. The Georgian's apparent one-sided triumph could mark the start of an unstoppable drive for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Carter exultantly told his supporters in Philadelphia, "I think we're going to win on the first ballot. We're No. 1 now and we're going to stay No. 1."

The pivotal primary in the nation's fourth largest state was a disaster for Henry Jackson, Morris Udall and George Wallace, Carter's most active challengers.

And it may have doused the lingering ambitions of Hubert Humphrey, who hoped that a stalemated convention would give him one more shot at the presidency which has eluded him for so many years.

Pittsburgh Mayor Pete Flaherty, the only major state official to back the winner, said "This was such a sweeping victory that Carter is now unstoppable.

"Up to today it was Carter versus Humphrey," Flaherty said. "Now it's Carter versus Ford."

Late Tuesday, with 52 per cent of the state's 9,638 precincts reporting, it was:

Cand.	Votes	Per Cent
Carter	244,343	35
Jackson	196,342	28
Udall	136,657	19
Wallace	72,002	10
Shapp	20,262	3
McCormack	19,719	3
Bayh	10,065	1
Harris	7,864	1

In the complicated delegate count, which may not be clear for several days, Carter also forged a surprising lead with 21 per cent counted.

Carter had 50 delegates pledged or favorable to him, Shapp had 23, Jackson 15, and Udall 9, Wallace 1. There were 37 delegates leading who were listed as uncommitted on the ballot. Jackson had been heavily favored to take the most delegates.

The 51-year-old former Georgia governor's apparent win not only routed Jackson, Udall and Wallace but also licked the coalition of organized labor and the state party machinery which grouped behind Jackson in an undisguised "Stop Carter" plot.

Carter also took a surprising lead in number of delegates, followed by uncommitteds, with Jackson in third.

Jackson, from his headquarters in Philadelphia, said "I thought I could win but I didn't. I have no excuses. We didn't get our message across."

He declared his campaign strategy would change, eschewing "gimmicks" and handshaking tours.

"I'll be taking my views directly to the voters and I'll be talking directly with the voters," he said. "The voters have been treated to candidates eating exotic foods, riding elephants, playing basketball and peanut farmers. But we don't elect a president to ride elephants."

Udall, the liberal Arizona congressman who has yet to win a primary, took the crushing loss with his customary good humor, declaring he would not withdraw.

Udall said he was "a little disappointed, but not dismayed." He called Pennsylvania "a busted play" because of the drying up of federal matching funds, and said he would detail in a news conference Wednesday where his money-starved campaign was going to get the funds to continue.

President Ford was unopposed in the Republican primary. So were 84 uncommitted delegates with 19 more to bt picked later by GOP party chiefs.

Having won 290 delegates and with the two huge uncommitted blocs from New York and Pennsylvania his in a convention battle with Ronald Reagan, the president was only 26 votes short of one-half the amount he needs for nomination.

Kissinger skips Ghana visit because of demonstrations

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has canceled his scheduled visit to Ghana because of Soviet-agitated student demonstrations there, State Department officials said Tuesday. The officials announced the cancellation as Kissinger flew from the Zambian capital, Lusaka, to this Zairian capital for the fourth stop of his African tour.

Earlier in the day, Kissinger announced a major new Africa policy of "unrelenting U.S. opposition" to Rhodesia's white minority regime until it peacefully transfers power to the black majority. Kissinger told Rhodesia it will face "unrelenting U.S. opposition until a negotiated settlement is achieved."

Fighting shatters calm in Beirut

Rockets, mortars and machineguns exploded in the streets of Beirut Tuesday night, shattering a daylong calm and undermining efforts to move ahead with election of a new president. Parliament set presidential elections for Saturday to choose a successor for chief of state Suleiman Franjieh. The fighting erupted between Moslems in the Beirut suburb of Chiah and Christians in Ain Rummaneh, killing at least 10 persons and wounding several more.

Rocky apologizes to Senate, Jackson

Vice President Nelson Rockefeller Tuesday formally apologized to the Senate and to Sen. Henry Jackson and said he "made a mistake" in suggesting Communists had inflitrated the Washington senator's staff. "In the context of their remarks," Rockefeller said, "I would like to apologize to the Senate of the United States and to its members and particularly to Senator Jackson for my remarks in an off-the-record meeting. There is no question that I made a mistake . . ."

Court rules on U.S. heroin scheme

The Supreme Court ruled Tuesday that the government can supply heroin to someone and then convict him for selling it. At the time the court's opinion was issued, President Ford was asking Congress in a special message for narcotics legislation requiring judges to jail dealers of hard drugs. He said some 5,000 young Americans die of drug abuse each year and thousands more "merely go through the motions of living."

Judge ponders Hughes administration issue

A Superior Court judge Tuesday took under submission a move to turn over administration of the California holdings of the late Howard Hughes to the County Public Administrator. Judge Neil Lake, sitting in the Probate Department of the court, gave no indication when he would rule on a motion to vacate his order of April 14 appointing Richard Gano, Hughes' cousin, as temporary administrator. Meanwhile, a worldwide search continued for a safety deposit box. The Los Angeles Times reported early Tuesday a key was found in an office used by Hughes long ago and kept until his death. The key reportedly fits a bank safety deposit box somewhere.

Debate on federal budget begins

Debate began Tuesday on the 1977 federal budget, with both sides promising jobs for the unemployed and economic recovery for the nation and insisting their opponents' approach would bring economic disaster. The House Budget Committee laid before the House a $413.6 billion budget proposal, nearly $18 billion more than President Ford requested. It would result in a deficit of $50.6 billion, $6 billion more than Ford's proposal.

Soliah innocent of robbery: jury

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A jury acquitted Patricia Hearst's former lover, Steven Soliah, of a fatal bank robbery charge Tuesday, rejecting two eyewitness identifications of him as one of four bandits.

The eight women and four men jurors deliberated for 6½ hours over two days before declaring Soliah innocent of taking part in the $15,000 bank holdup during which a woman customer was killed by a shotgun blast.

As court clerk Pat Hildrebrand read the verdict, Soliah and his two court-appointed attorneys embraced emotionally. Elsie Soliah, the defendant's mother, broke into tears and threw her arms around him.

"I just feel so wonderful," she declared.

Without talking with reporters, Soliah left the courthouse with his mother.

One of his lawyers, Sheldon Otis, said: "I think Steve is very, very happy and just wanted to be with himself." Jury forewoman Joann Parker, 38, said the prosecution presented "A weak case. The evidence just wasn't there. It took a long time; it took a lot of votes."

During the trial, Soliah testified he became involved with the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army through pity and affection for Miss Hearst, but he denied participating in the April 21, 1975 robbery of the Crocker Bank.

The verdict came on the heels of a disclosure that the name of a defense witness who weakly supported Soliah's alibi, was listed on a guest book at Folsom State Prison the day of the robbery.

On that day, Soliah said he was in San Francisco, 90 miles away from the holdup in Carmichael, a Sacramento suburb 10 miles west of Folsom.

The prosecution presented two eyewitnesses who identified Soliah as an obscenity-shouting, shotgun-toting bandid who stood near a door in the bank during the robbery.

But the defense argued the two witnesses, both bank employes, were confused by the presence of Victor Kops, a clinical psychologist who bears a striking resemblance to Soliah.

Kops testified he stood in the same location where the prosecution witnesses said Soliah stood during the robbery.

Soliah testified he first helped Miss Hearst and SLA "soldiers" William and Emily Harris because he was afraid they might be killed by police. He recalled the death of Angela Atwood, one of six SLA members to die in a fiery shootout with Los Angeles police in May 1974.

He said he kept in touch with Miss Hearst and the Harrises while they lived in a dingy flat in Sacramento during late 1974 and early 1975, part of Miss Hearst's so-called "missing year" about which she refused to testify before her conviction at her own bank robbery trial.

"At that time, I felt really close to — to Patty," he said. He detailed how he and the newspaper heiress later shared a San Francisco flat until they were arrested last Sept. 18.

"I lived with her, I slept with her. We had a close relationship."

Lawyer: Patty virtually 'kidnaped'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst's lawyer charged Tuesday she was virtually "kidnaped" by U.S. marshals who secretly had whisked her from a hospital bed to a federal prison facility.

The marshal's office denied the charge.

Attorney Albert Johnson said he was having a legal conference Monday with the convicted bank robber, who is recuperating from a collapsed lung, when a federal marshal interrupted.

He said the officer "told Patty to get out of bed, dress in three minutes or they would throw a blanket around her and drag her out of the hospital."

"In less than two minutes, she threw on a small dress and was whisked out," Johnson told a news conference.

"I suppose the caption of this might be 'Patricia Hearst kidnaped again.' "

The incident left the heiress in a state of "emotional collapse," Johnson said.

Sequoia Hospital administrator Arthur Faro said Miss Hearst and hospital employes present at her removal by the marshals "were upset."

"The matter was handled rather brusquely," he said. "Marshals came in earlier than expected and demanded she accompany them. Our employes said they told her to move out right now or 'We'll wrap you in a blanket and take you out.' "

Johnson said the marshals' "unforgiveable action caused her an emotional disturbance that has made her very much like she was back in September after her capture and before psychiatric treatment. She is very non-communicative now."

The marshal's office in San Francisco took issue with Johnson.

"The doctors certified her for release and said she was well enough to travel," said Marshal Phil Krell. "The doctors released her — and not at our request. We called the doctor Monday morning and asked, 'When are you going to release her?' Dr. John Prendergast said, 'She can go right now.' "

Johnson said doctors told him Tuesday Miss Hearst's condition was still "guarded," and he also protested her transfer to a minimum security facility "where even the perimeter guards are unarmed, I understand." Miss Hearst and her lawyers have expressed fears she would be murdered.

Later in the day, Miss Hearst was secretly driven to San Diego by U.S. marshals to the hospital ward of the Federal Metropolitan Correctional Center. She was booked for 90 days of psychiatric examination.

American among 21 new cardinals named by Pope

People

• POPE PAUL VI created 21 new cardinals Tuesday, including two he did not name, and one American, making the youngest and most international college in the history of the Roman Catholic Church. Among the new princes of the church, who will be given their red hats and rihgs of office in a colorful consistory May 24, were two U.S. born prelates — Archbishop William Wakefield Baum, 49, a Dallas native who is archbishop of Washington, and Opilio Rossi, 66, an Italian citizen who was born in New York and is currently apostolic nuncio, or ambassador, to Austria.

• "The Spirit of '76," the painting that hangs on a thousand classroom walls, depicts three men filled with patriotism and with rum, according to a recently discovered letter written by the artist, Archibald M. Willard, in 1909. Don Chaput, curator of history at the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural history, discovered the letter. It said in part: "It was not uncommon then to stimulate their (drummer and fifer) musical efforts with rum, the common stimulant of that day. It caused him to perform tricks, such as throwing the drum sticks in the air, catching them and keeping the time without any break. Thus being full of a little rum, and a great deal of patriotism, they stepped forth, looked military and felt proud."

• Actor Walter Matthaw still was in the intensive care unit at Daniel Freeman Hospital in California Tuesday, following open heart surgery, but doctors said he would recover completely. Surgeons Monday transplanted veins from Matthau's legs, to his heart to renew blocked circulation.

• Veteran movie actor John Wayne, who has made many a Western movie on horseback, will be in Louisville this week for Saturday's 102nd running of the Kentucky Derby. The 68-year-old actor will serve as grand marshal of the Pegasus Parade Thursday. On Wednesday, Wayne will ride on the Belle of Louisville in the annual steamboat race.

Hugh D. Auchincloss says he rejected offers from developers to build condominiums on Hammersmith farm, the estate where the late President John F. Kennedy courted his wife, Jacqueline, because of its character and historic value. Instead, owner Auchincloss — stepfather of Jacqueline — offered to sell to Rhode Island, which wants to purchase it for a park expansion and a JFK memorial.

Unit panel doesn't reflect community: school report

by JUDY JOBBITT

The pro-con split of the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 unit school district study committee should not be construed by the Dist. 59 board as representative of the feelings of the general public, according to a majority report by the committee to the board.

The report, released Monday, urges the elementary school board to take the issue to the voters and stresses that the committee's 14 to 9 vote on the recommendation "should not be interpreted as an indication of the general public's feelings. The composition of the committee negates that possibility."

The report, which outlines the committee's conclusions, states that the members were selected in part because of their views on the unit district subject. Half of the original committee was selected because of known biases on the subject with the number of members pro and con evenly divided. The other half of the committee members' views were unknown.

THE PROPOSED UNIT district would include Forest View and Elk Grove high schools in addition to the current Dist. 59 schools. It would place elementary and high schools under one administraton and school board. Currently Dist. 59 is one of seven elementary districts in High School Dist. 214.

Students living in the Dist. 59 area currently attending Rolling Meadows High School would transfer to Forest View, although provisions might be made to allow these students the option of which school they would attend, the report states.

The report also states that Forest View would not have as severe an overcrowding problem as it is currently experiencing. Dist. 214 has set the capacity for the high schools at 2,500 students and Forest View has about 2,800. The report states that Jack Martin, Forest View principal, said the "true" capacity of the school is 2,300.

UNDER THE PROPOSED unit district, the school could have about 100 fewer students than currently enrolled.

The proposed unit district also would have about the same percentage of enrollment decline as the remaining portion of Dist. 214 according to the report, although it states that "critics of the formation of a unit district contended that the forecasted declining enrollment will be hastened in the remaining portion of Dist. 214."

Points made about improvements for the education programs under a unit district include:

- The ability to offer the same curriculum currently offered at the two high schools.
- Provisions for "better articulation and continuity" for a kindergarten through 12th grade program, although "there is no guarantee."
- Improved local control on school financing and decisions on education programs.
- A common school calendar and philosophy on education.
- A good tax base for providing education funds.

The Dist. 59 board plans to discuss the report at the board meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the administration center, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

The financial report states that "Dist. 59 has a unique opportunity via reorganization to retain $3.5 to $4 million to the local area which heretofore subsidized the remaining portion of Dist. 214." Currently Dist. 59 supplies about 40 per cent of the tax base and 27 per cent of the students in Dist. 214.

The report also discusses controversy that developed over the bias of the consultants and committee members and over the administrative abilities in Districts 59 and 214.

It states that Thomas Guy, chairman, said the consultants were "not to be impartial but to give guidance as a result of their professional experience."

The report also states criticism was directed toward the financial report because it failed to take into account a $19 million surplus Dist. 214 currently has when a deficit of about $38 million was computed for the district by the 1980-81 school year. The report states that even with the current surplus the high school district would have a deficit within the next five years which might jeopardize the current education programs in Dist.

Low-income home report unverified by CHA heads

Chicago Housing Authority officials Tuesday refused to confirm or deny published reports of a CHA survey that purportedly shows that industry-sponsored low-income housing has the greatest chance of being accepted in the suburbs.

Robert Lefley, housing authority said that the confidential survey would be turned over to the U.S. District Court in Chicago if the court decides it wants to draw up a regional public housing plan.

"We are not releasing any information, and I am not in a position to confirm or deny any press reports," Lefley said. "Results of the survey will be given to the court if it wants to consider a plan. If it doesn't, then what's the point?"

LAST TUESDAY, THE U. S. Supreme Court ruled 8-0 that a federal court can order an area housing plan to relieve segregated housing in the city. The case was returned to U. S. District Court Judge Richard B. Austin for further consideration.

Austin ruled in 1969 that CHA was guilty of racial discrimination because it concentrated public housing on Chicago's South and West sides.

Lefley said initial results of the study were tabulated last October. Mid-America Appraisal and Research Corp., Chicago, was paid $121,900 to conduct the survey.

CHA confirmed in January that Elk Grove Village was among the suburbs that would be studied because of its large industrial park. But Lefley said Tuesday, "I would suggest that Elk Grove was probably not among the areas surveyed in the first phase."

News reports quoting an unnamed CHA source Tuesday said that suburban "opinion leaders" believed their communities were not prepared for public housing, but that residents might be more receptive to low-income housing if it was backed by a local employer.

implemented during his 18-year tenure at Arlington Heights. They include the Northwest Police Academy, the Metropolitan Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs Enforcement Group (MEG), the Northwest Central Dispatch System, the department's juvenile division and its Uplift and high school counselor programs, and the Police Magistrate Court System, which places the judge on salary by agreement with the village board.

"Throughout my career, I have always felt that the primary duty of any police department is to protect and to serve with integrity. I feel that I have competently fulfilled this dual responsibility during my long career in the field of law enforcement, as well as during my 18 years with the Arlington Heights Police Dept. as Chief," Calderwood's letter states.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS was given recognition for its police programs ina recently published book, "America's 50 Safest Cities," in which the village was commended for having the lowest crime rate in Illinois and was ranked 15th on a national basis, the letter states.

Calderwood Tuesday drew praise from Hanson and Village Pres. James T. Ryan.

"He's done an outstanding job. We've always had excellent rapport. His programs have been very innovative and creative," Hanson said.

"We have a police force second to none, and I think he is largely responsible. The community certainly owes him a tremendous debt of gratitude," Ryan said.

"about six" candidates from the outside applicants, Hanson said. Those candidates and any applicants from within the village's police force will be interviewed to narrow the final field to "about three or four," according to Hanson.

The final candidates will be given psychological and polygram tests before a final decision is made, he said.

The final decision rests with Hanson. According to village ordinances, approval from the village board is not required.

After police chief is hired

Panel urges police station start

The Arlington Heights finance committee Tuesday night recommended hiring a consultant and architect to plan a new police station, but specified that they should not begin their work until a new police chief is hired.

The three-man committee accepted the conclusion of an administrative study released Monday that crowded conditions in the present police facility hamper the department's effectiveness.

The committee stopped short of adopting the study's recommendation to build a 50,000 square-foot building on Sigwalt Street immediately east of the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

"ALTHOUGH THIS study is commendable, we have the responsibility of inspiring public confidence in the soundness and wiseness of our actions," said Trustee Frank Palmatier, chairman of the committee.

"I'm convinced of the need for new quarters for the police, but I feel we need the judgement of a consultant to give assurance to the taxpayers," he said.

The committee also rejected the idea of having the consulting work of determining the special needs of the police department by the same firm hired to do the architectural work.

"The board would be less subject to criticism if we got an independent consultant's opinion and then have another firm design it," Trustee Richard Durava said.

VILLAGE MGR. L. A. Hanson estimated the cost of a consultant would be about $12,000.

The estimated cost of a 50,000 square-foot facility is $2.5 million, Hanson said.

The committee urged the administration to begin interviewing consultants and architects immediately, but specified that they not begin work until a new police chief is employed.

L. W. Calderwood, Arlington Heights Police Chief the past 18 years, submitted his letter of resignation Tuesday, effective July 30.

"THE TIMING FOR all this should allow a new chief to provide his expertise and to give input," Palmatier said.

During brief discussion of the possible methods of financing the new police facility, preference was shown for selling bonds rather than continuing the utility tax, which may be discontinued at the end of this year.

"It almost has to be financed by bonds. The utility tax is in considerable political jeopardy and would take a couple years to save up the necessary funds. I don't think we can wait that long," Palmatier said.

"The only way to raise the money on short notice is through bonds," he said.

'Survival' test asked by Nimrod

by PAMELA BIGFORD

A bill requiring all Illinois high school seniors to pass proficiency tests in reading and writing before receiving diplomas has been introduced into the Illinois Senate by State Sen. John J. Nimrod, R-Glenview.

Nimrod also has introduced a companion measure imposing the same standard on freshmen enrolling in a public college or university other than a community college, who had not taken such a test in high school.

Nimrod said he introduced these bills so the state would make sure students were graduating with the skills public school's should be teaching.

"We're spending a lot of money to educate students in our universities at the remedial level," so graduation requirements set by individual school districts must not be high enough, Nimrod said, citing the Chicago Public Schools as a major trouble spot.

"HIGH SCHOOL graduates from Chicago and some of the Downstate districts enter college with no basic education skills," Nimrod said. "Some universities provide remedial reading courses, which is ludicrous at the university level. In other cases, the students who have been graduates from high school without learning anything are in the same classes as educated students, pulling the classes down to a high school level or worse."

Nimrod noted that other high school graduates who cannot read or write enter the working world only to fail in "their jobs, their citizenship and their daily living."

While the bill now includes only reading and writing, Nimrod said he considers basic math skills equally important and plans to amend the bill to include math once it reaches the senate floor.

NIMROD SAID IT is clear "there is something wrong with the priorities in some of our school systems, and it's past time they were required to change their ways." He said it is the public school's basic responsibility to educate its students in reading, writing and math skills before allowing them to graduate.

High School Dist. 211, covering the Palatine, Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg area, is the only Northwest suburban high school district now considering giving proficiency tests on its own. The district is developing survival tests in math and English, which students will begin taking early in their high school career. If they cannot pass the tests, they will enroll in courses that stress basic math and English skills.

The bill requiring college freshmen who have not taken a proficiency test to take one before they enter a public university or college is intended to "catch those students coming here from out-of-state. They should be able to meet our standards," Nimrod said.

NIMROD SAID HE excluded community colleges from these requirements because few students from other states would attend a community college.

Bloomin' business

Family pulls together to write new chapters in a 60-year story

by LEA TONKIN

Harold Busse and family have a growing business. They plan to share their 60th anniversary success story Sunday at an open house celebration.

It all started for the love of flowers, Busse said. Busse's fathtr, Fred, and grandfather, Louis, launched a florist business on the outskirts of the area later incorporated in 1916 as Mount Prospect.

Nowadays folks at Busse's Flowers and Gifts Inc., 303 Evergreen, sell everything from jewelry to furniture. But flowers and plants remain the backbone of the family enterprise.

BUSSE SAID he's gearing up for the biggest flower sales weekend of the year. By the time Mother's Day rolls around May 9, all the containers, ribbons and accessories to be stuffed into floral arrangements will be ready.

"We'll send out some 750 to 1,000 items on Mother's Day," Busse said.

Daisies, carnations and baby's breath will share the spotlight with iris and roses for the occasion. Years ago, gladiolas and snapdragons were popular flowers for Mother's Day arrangements.

Busse said everyone in the family pitches in to help during the rush of last-minute orders. It's quite a family.

FRED BUSSE and his wife, Alma, have worked side by side with their son, Harold, and his wife, Carol, for years. The younger Busses have owned the business since 1964. Harold's brother, Herb, worked in the family business until he decided to launch a Woodstock enterprise.

Then there are Harold and Carol Busse's children, Linda and Jerry. Linda specializes in wedding design at the shop, and her husband, Paul Seils, works there as a designer and assistant manager. Their children, Melani and Christian, come to the greenhouse "to help grandpa." Jerry Busse, who chose the accounting field, offers business counsel. Elsie Peter, Carol Busse's mother, is chief bookkeeper. And Harold's sister, Sylvia, helps out during the busy season.

The Busse family business has changed from a wholesale to a retail operation. Floral arranging, funeral and wedding floral design are specialities. Added to the lineup are dried flower materials, candles, gifts, garden supplies, furniture, antiques and a design school.

Busse said the pubiic is invited to join in the flower shop's 60th anniversary celebration from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday. Refreshments will be served, gifts and entertainment will be provided.

Stocks fall, close at 995

NEW YORK (UPI) — A combination of U. S. Steel's drop in earnings and fear the Federal Reserve Board had tightened credit drove prices sharply lower Tuesday in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, ahead around two points at the start, fell 7.25 points to 995.51. The blue-chip average, which gained 2.05 points Monday, had been off only around two points when U. S. Steel reported is first quarter net fell to $1.80 a share from $2.55 a year ago.

One analyst said the selling, despite U. S. Steel's decision to raise its dividend to 82½ cents a share from 70 cents, indicated many traders were looking for an excuse to sell. U. S. Steel lost ½ to 80.

Not only blue-chips were affected. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.57 to 101.86, the NYSE common stock index 0.39 to 54.25 and the average price of an NYSE common share slipped 18 cents.

Market breadth figures revealed considerable investor uncertainty. Declines topped advances, 860 to 562, among the 1,884 issues crossing the tape. But 462 remained unchanged.

Turnover amounted to about 17,760,000 shares, up from the 15,520,000 traded Monday, the third slowest trading session of the year. However, the pace was far below that of the first quarter and indicates only light selling pressure.

After an upsurge in the first hour, prices deteriorated as the Fed, disturbed by a recent $3.4 billion surge in the nation's money supply, twice took steps to keep federal fund rates — those that member banks charge one another for overnight loans — from going higher. The last time, the board's action put the rate at 4 15-16 per cent, up from the recent 4¾ per cent level.

The Fed moves were seen by money managers as a confirmation the board wanted to tighten credit. A change in the Fed's accommodative policy could lead to a rise in interest rates and serve to drive investors from stocks to higher-yielding money instruments.

Needham quits stock exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) — James J. Needham resigned Tuesday as chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, but denied he had been forced to leave the key leadership position in the securities industry.

William M. Batten, 66, former chairman of J. C. Penney Co., was immediately named by the NYSE Board of Directors to succeed the 49-year-old Needham, who had served as chairman of the nation's largest stock exchange since 1972.

Needham's resignation came as a surprise to many in the securities industry despite reports he was losing support from some members of the Wall Street community and that he had an uneasy relationship with the Securities & Exchange Commission, the federal regulator of stock markets.

Needham said he had no immediate plans after May 19, the effective date of his resignation, and repeatedly turned aside suggestions he had been asked to step down as chairman.

Bell to shift 90 more workers

Arlington Heights will lose another 90 Illinois Bell Telephone Co. employes within the coming year, the utility announced Tuesday.

The telephone company said 90 employes in the manual directory assistance office and operator toll office at 106 Eastman Ave. will be transferred to other offices when a Sept. 10 change in directory assistance call service is made.

In a separate announcement, Bell earlier said some 140 workers in the office at 44 S. Vail St., Arlington Heights will be transferred to other suburban offices starting in September.

THE TRANSFERS announced Tuesday are part of a plan to provide more efficient directory assistance and long-distance service to Arlington said.

Starting Sept. 10, all directory assistance calls for the area will be routed to other nearby offices equipped with a computerized data system called DAS/M (Directory Assistance System/Manual).

Using the system, an operator taps a key for the appropriate directory and types the name the caller has given. The computer flashed on a screen the directory column containing the name, and the operator uses additional keys to locate the correct number.

All operator-assisted long-distance calls will be routed to nearby Traffic Service Position System (TSPS) offices starting Oct. 16.

Bell's local operator services manager Jay King said none of the 90 regular employes at the 106 Eastman offices will lose their jobs.

The way we see it

Court mini-center needed here

A Circuit Court mini-center in the Northwest suburbs is necessary to help relieve our often overburdened judicial system, and it is encouraging that a site near Arlington Park Race Track is one of the locations being considered for such a facility.

Local officials, judges and courtroom administrators agree that there is a need to streamline the suburban judicial process, and a mini-center for this area would help do just that. The quality of justice suffers because there simply is not enough time, space or personnel to serve this area adequately.

Compounding the problem is the fact that judicial districts break the Northwest suburbs into seemingly unrelated areas. Schaumburg and Palatine Townships are in separate and far-flung judicial districts. As we have said before, redistricting is the first step in improving the system, for it would make little sense to build a mini-center in this area and not allow Arlington Heights residents, who live across the street from the facility, to use it.

The site near Arlington Park Race Track, at the southwest corner of Wilke Road and Euclid Avenue, appears to be an ideal one. The land is large enough to accommodate a building and parking facilities, and there likely is no more centrally located site in the Northwest suburbs served by major highways and the Chicago and North Western Ry.

The owners of the property, Madison Square Garden Corp., which also owns the Arlington Park Race Track and Hilton Hotel complex, must realize that a court building might be an ideal way to realize the worth of the land — which has been vacant for years.

Rolling Meadows officials who support the mini-center site probably will not allow high density apartments or a commercial strip to be built there because of the adjacent subdivision.

The Cook County Board ultimately will decide whether another mini-center is needed and where it will be built. In the meantime, we urge Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows to continue pushing for the facility at the Wilke-Euclid site and for other local governmental representatives and residents to support the project.

Justice sure has speeded up since we're centrally located in this mini-center!

The almanac

By United Press International

Today is Wednesday, April 28, the 119th day of 1976 with 247 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Taurus.

James Monroe, fifth president of the United States, was born April 28, 1758. This is entertainer Ann-Margret's 35th birthday.

On this day in history:

• In 1788, Maryland was admitted to the Union as the seventh state.

• In 1945, Fascist leader Benito Mussolini was executed by Italian patriots.

• In 1952, the war with Japan was officially ended with signing of a treaty by the United States and 47 other nations.

• In 1975, North Vietnamese troops assaulted parts of Saigon's suburbs as the Communists tightened a noose around the South Vietnamese capital city.

A thought for the day: President James Monroe, author of "The Monroe Doctrine," said, "National honor is national property of the highest value."

AMERICAN REVOLUTION BICENTENNIAL 1776-1976

NEW YORK, April 28 — Gen. Washington wrote a bristling letter chastizing Col. Richard Gridley because the fortified works for the defense of Boston were progressing so slowly. "Who am I to blame for this shameful neglect but you, sir, who was to have them executed," Washington demanded.

Worthy of note

Recently my husband had surgery and required a considerable amount of blood. The members of St. Raymond's Church and the Mount Prospect community responded so generously to donate all the blood needed. I just want to extend my heartfelt thanks and sincere appreciation to them. The generosity and kindness of these friends will always be remembered. He is improving every day and we are looking forward to his complete recovery soon.

Vandalism number one crime: chief

The crime that everyone is concerned with; the crime that really affects everyone; yet the crime that no one can say they have found a solution to: Vandalism.

Being a Police Officer for over 20 years, I can truly say this has been the number one crime, to the contrary of statistics that indicate that burglary and theft lead all others.

In many communities, vandalism is called a variance of names, such as: mischief, property damage or unknown acts. All in all these perpetrations toward personal property are still vandalism.

In Mount Prospect, both the police and the elected administration have attempted to do something about the rising rate of vandalism. We have initiated special patrols specifically concerned with catching the offender after acts have been committed. We have instituted a crime prevention bureau where we invite the citizens to request speakers, make literature available outlining how, why and when to report vandalism or suspicious incidents. We compile statistics of where most vandalism is occurring so that we may selectively add patrol efforts. We constantly request citizen involvement in reducing these acts of vandalism.

Letters must be signed, and no letters will be published anonymously. Letters in excess of 300 words are subject to condensation. Direct your mail to The Herald Fence Post, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

RECENTLY WE initiated the S.T.O.P.—A.L.E.R.T. porgram where concerned citizens may volunteer and devote their spare time in aiding themselves and the community by riding around at night and through citizens' radios, report these acts directly to the police.

Last of all, I have publicly requested that concerned citizens communicate directly with me, with their ideas on how to better handle this problem of vandalism.

I personally think that the minority of this community should expend their energy toward solving our shared problem rather than criticizing the police department for not doing their job.

THE POLICE, myself included, cannot wave the "magic wand" that will make vandalism disappear. I am writing to assure you that your police department is doing everything possible to explore new ways or techniques to reduce vandalism.

Vandalism will continue to grow, and the senseless destruction will continue to mount until all communities realize that this is a problem of parental supervision, knowing what influences vandals and legal authorities (courts) facing up to the problem.

I do not favor capital punishment in any respect; however, I do realize that until youths can be held accountable for their acts and until parents of these harboured youths can be made responsible for their children's acts of vandalism, we are just paddling up the river.

In ending I wish to point out that the Mount Prospect police department services 50,000 residents of all ages. We patrol 161 miles of streets within the village 24 hours per day. We boast an average response time of three minutes or less in answering any call. During the year of 1975, our police answered 18,356 calls for service, not mentioning all the other entities involved in the police service. I believe we are doing a fine job in law enforcement.

"PARENTS," the anti-social acts that your children commit today will lead to serious behavior problems when they become adults. It is your God-given responsibility to know where your children are and what they are doing while away from you. If you fail to exercise your parental responsibility, then you should be prepared to suffer the consequences.

Let's all work together to make Mount Prospect a better place to live and enjoy by being concerned and by working together to solve our problems.

Free enterprise system best 'law' on pricing

Prior to May 12, various homeowner associations in Palatine will be attempting to conduct an opinion poll. Due to limitations, it is impossible for the assocations to ask each resident their opinion, so in all probability, it will be a random opinion survey. The question which will be asked is one that affects almost every household in Palatine: should the Village of Palatine enact legislation to force grocery chain stores to maintain individual item prices on each item?

The question is not: Do you want each product priced individually: There is little doubt in my mind that 95 per cent of the families in Palatine want individual item pricing! Both the Consumer's Coalition and I agree 100 per cent on that point! The area of disagreement seems to be the method of arriving at that end.

THE CONSUMER'S Coalition says legislate, and they have been successful in having ordinances passed in other communities. The Consumer's Coalition has asked the Palatine Village Board to enact an ordinance forcing grocery chain stores to maintain prices on individual items. As is the village's procedure, the board has referred this to committee for further study, and the committee is in the process of conducting an extensive study. One of their steps was to come to the Citizen's Council of the Palatine Advisory Board and ask the homeowner and condominium associations represented to conduct a survey of their members regarding the desirability of this ordinance. This is now in process.

Since this has been an emotional issue, I would like the residents to understand that there are other methods — and possibly cheaper methods — of attempting to reach the goal of individual item pricing. One method is competition — the free enterprise system.

The village's committee has received written assurances from all of the major food chain stores serving Palatine that they do not anticipate removing prices from individual items . . .if and when computerized check out comes — which, at the earliest, is two years from now. In addition, three chain stores have promised in writing not to remove prices from individual items. (It should be noted that there are exceptions, such as individual packs of cigarettes, gum, etc.) Are not these written assurances good enough for the Coalition? Apparently not. They seem to be saying "how can we trust these responses?"

I FEEL THAT THE free enterprise system will force these stores to live up to their promises! The food industry profits occur from moving a high volume of items rapidly. Failure to move their items would cause an erosion of profits. An industry trade report states that a loss of just 5 per cent of their volume would result in zero cost savings obtainable from computerized check out. All consumers have to do in order to force individual item pricing is stay away from a store that begins removing prices from individual products. I feel that if only 5 to 10 per cent boycott the store, that store will quickly reinstate individual item markings. The consumers responded when the price of sugar increased drastically. Their boycott did cause the price of sugar to fall. The consumer can do it if a store begins to remove prices.

LET US GIVE the free enterprise system a chance to work! We are often too quick to have the government — at any level — step in to help us. I feel this is something that we, as consumers, can correct without government intervention. And if I am wrong? The village can quickly enact an ordinance.

If you are asked your opinion, I encourage you to state "yes" that you favor individual item pricing, but "no" a village ordinance is not required now. To those of you who are not asked your opinion, please call any of the village trustees so that your thoughts will be heard on this issue.

Land dedication applies only to residential use

A false impression was created by your story, "Downtown Area Exempt from Land Dedication Laws" published in the April 22 edition of the Arlington Heights Herlad. The Arlington Heights' Land Dedication Ordinance has required developers to dedicate land or money in lieu of land whenever the subdivision of residential land created a need for more school, park or other public lands. Commercial developers have never been required to dedicate land or money in lieu thereof for the purposes cited.

The amendment to the Land Dedication Ordinance adopted by the village board on April 19 includes the word "residential" referring to planned unit development only as a clarification. Commercial development was exempted in the past and will continue to be exempted.

The plan commission recommendation would have exempted the central business district from all land dedication requirements under the ordinance. The village board, in its wisdom, decided that the requirements pertaining to residential development would continue to be the thrust of the ordinance if such development occurs throughout the village including the central business district.

Hats off to Conant's band

It is amazing today the notoriety given the teenagers who are eternally in the media committing various crimes such as vandalism, drugs, stealing or stripping cars, etc., not to mention the guys and gals loitering around shopping malls, pizza parlors, hot dog stands, etc., wasting precious time.

Why can't some publicity be given to the young men and women who indulge in music?

These future adults are dedicated to what they are doing, as witnessed by my husband and I who attended one of the Conant Cougar Marching Band practices for a period of 4½ hours. These young men and women are undefeated in their aim and purpose to perfect their craft. We became exhausted just watching them perform; it seemed like endless hours. Their dedication was obvious because no complaints were registered by the participating members.

Here is a team that has represented Conant High School in various competitions and has invariably won the silver and gold plaques while touring Mexico, was an all-around winner at Wheeling High School in the Chicagoland Marching Band Competition, and many other awards. I am positive a little more publicity directed in their behalf would intensify their idealism and dedication in their endeavor to strive for perfection.

It seems to me that if these young men and women could see their efforts being recognized, it would intensify their civic pride. I am sure that all of us, who give this band our support, will gain the benefits of this bands' accomplishments and keep their moral turpitude on a high level. So let's all rally around the Conant Cougar Marching Band and give them their just desserts!

Two firms here report flags, poles in stock

In reply to Peggy Thompson's comments regarding flagpoles and flags, and her inability to locate them in our area, I might advise her to contact any local community organization, homeowners associations or the Mount Prospect Bicentennial Commission. My company has spent a great deal of time with these groups, advertising the fact we do stock and sell residential flagpoles and flags. Since I must assume Mrs. Thompson attempted this, I suggest she or any other concerned resident contact C & H Building Specialties, Inc. at 775-2722.

While reading The Palatine Herald, we found a letter from a woman who could not find a flag pole.

We wish she would have tried at Nabor Lumber Co., 1205 W. Baldwin Rd., Palatine, 358-3644. We have flag pole kits in stock in the store. If we do not have an article, we will try to direct you to someone who does.

Here's a not-so-usual garage sale

ternity party prank.

As Judy Broderick said, "We really don't have any ringers this year. After a moose, what else can you do? Life has to go downhill." However, Judy will be selling pet pine cones this weekend.

"Beechwood Boutique" began one fine September day six years ago. Friends were drinking coffee at Karolyn Swanson's house. As she remembered it, "It was warm and if we had any trees, they'd be starting to turn."

SOMEONE MENTIONED garage sales. It seemed like a wonderful idea. Five ladies comprised that original group . . . Kathy Connors, Karolyn Swanson, Judy Broderick, Fran Zornow and Raynette Colbeck.

Right off, their husbands moaned. But the girls figured this could be fun for everyone.

"I always had the feeling when I left garage sales that people were talking about me," said Judy. "We wanted to make people feel at home.

"They're always greeted warmly," she said. "They're not made to feel funny walking through our garages."

And they don't sell junk. "If something doesn't work, then we sell it for a quarter and mark it," said Kathy Connors. "In six years, we've never had anyone come back on Sunday and say, 'Boy, this is a pile of junk.'

Today

Mike Klein's people

"Be honest with 'em," said Kathy. "If it doesn't work, tell 'em. That's how we made our reputation."

THE GOOD PEOPLE on Beechwood deliver larger items, such as furniture. "We're like Marshall Field," said Judy. They've sold cars and even tried to peddle a house once.

Children on Beechwood usually are well behaved because, said Kathy Connors, "Kids who don't work out during the year are threatened with being sold. They're guaranteed, too. We give them the slip from the hospital."

Now, they are in the last moments before "Spirit of America." Sgt. Ronald Gozdecki of the Buffalo Grove Police Dept. has seen that a policeman will direct traffic.

And Principal Robert Sorensen of nearby Longfellow School said visitors Thursday night may park at the school.

Ann Samuelstuen has organized the toys. Carole Guanci spread blue announcement flyers around Buffalo Grove. They bought newspaper ads. And you can bet that Fran Zornow just can't wait.

"Fran can sell anything to anybody," Judy Broderick said proudly.

ARNOLD SCHMIDT will be there again, strumming his guitar and playing the harmonica. There will not be any Super Moose, but each of the six garages will serve hot coffee Thursday night.

And about that special event for the paramedics . . . Eileen Wolf of nearby Thornton Lane donated her dishwasher, clothes washer and dryer to the bake sale. When they sell, paramedics will get the money.

You'll find most anything at the "Beechwood Boutique," even a stuffed squirrel.

But don't come asking for a stuffed buffalo head (the village isn't selling) and you won't be able to purchase the pet pebble owned by Judy Broderick's son.

That's because Billy Broderick swallowed it recently while the pet pebble was taking a bath.

Walker weighs budgeting compromise

Gov. Daniel Walker has not decided whether he will support a compromise plan reached Monday on a method for moving fiscal 1977 spending bills through the Illinois General Assembly.

Norton Kay, Walker's press aide, said no decision has been reached on the compromise plan that was reached by Democrats in the Illinois House.

Walker and his agency directors have opposed an omnibus appropriations bill, proposed by State Rep. Gerald Shea, D-Riverside. The Walker administration contends the Shea proposal gives too much control to a few members of the General Assembly over the entire budget.

SHEA HAD introduced a package of 11 bills covering the entire state budget. In other years, as many as 160 appropriations bills for various state agencies have been considered by the legislature.

The compromise proposal will divide the budget into 34 bills to be considered by the dual appropriations committees in the House and Senate.

Kay said the 34-bill package would be better than the 11-bill proposal put forth by Shea.

Legislative action on the appropriations bills had been confused in recent weeks because of the dispute over how many appropriations bills will be used. One House committee was reviewing portions of the governor's $9 billion budget using the omnibus legislation, while the second was approving separate bills for each department.

House Democrats met for 40 minutes Monday to iron out differences in committee procedures.

KAY NOTED THE Walker administration opposed the omnibus approach because legislators loyal to Mayor Richard Daley would have had added control over the final form of the budget.

"If there are a few bills, Shea can have greater control over the final form, but he will have a harder time controlling the appropriations bills if there are a larger number of bills when you get down to the key pressure points," Kay said.

The General Assembly must take final action on the budget by June 30.

Hospital gift shop, offices expanded

A new gift shop, admitting office and lobby have opened at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, as part of the hospital's expansion and renovation programs.

In addition to the usual gifts, Illinois state lottery tickets will be sold in the new gift shop. Revenue from ticket sales and winning lottery numbers will be used by the hospital auxiliary to buy new equipment, a Holy Family spokesman said.

Four conference rooms have been added to the admitting area and the new lobby is the location of a circular information desk.

In public housing dispute

Single-family plea starts furor

by KURT BAER

A national coalition has called on President Ford to see that new public housing takes the form of single-family homes.

But in Chicago, noted urbanologist Pierre de Vise said single-family public housing is unrealistic, particularly in the suburbs.

The group, tentatively called "People at Home with Each Other," organized Sunday night to promote public housing in the suburbs. In one of its first actions, the coalition sent a telegram to Ford stating:

"TO RELEGATE people, because of their poverty, to lives in multiple-dwelling high-rises in the countryside of the United States would pervert the whole concept of equal housing opportunities."

The U. S. Supreme Court ruled April 20 that the federal courts can order federally funded low-income housing in the suburbs to relieve inner-city segregation.

DeVise, professor at the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle campus Center for Urban Studies, said it is unrealistic to talk about single-family public housing for the poor when only 20 per cent of the American population can afford to buy a single-family home in the private market.

"It is completely unfeasible to have single-family dwellings for poor people at a time whe the majority of Americans cannot afford to own a home," De Vise said.

MOST PUBLIC housing in the United States, outside of urban centers, is single-family attached, or townhouse type, he said. High-density high-rise public housing which exists in cities such as Chicago no longer can be built because of guidelines set by the court, he said.

St. Clair Drake, professor of anthropology at Stanford University and one of the founders of People at Home with Each Other, said, "There is now no way that the larger, somewhat more affluent community can relate with poor people as individuals on a day-to-day, across-the-fence personal basis."

The group feels last week's Supreme Court ruling opens the door to a new relationship between urban poor and affluent suburbanites.

Besides Drake, other members of the new group include Etta Moten Barnett of Chicago, widow of Claude Barnett of the Associated Negro Press Service; Kim Keare, a Highland Park attorney; and Ethel Untermyer of Deerfield.

De Vise said that anticipated resistance to the Supreme Court decision among suburban governments "is an understatement." However, he added the decision probably will tend to relax restrictive zoning practices of many suburbs.

Nearly all of the public housing in the suburbs today is for the elderly and most of it is in mid-rise apartment buildings, De Vise said.

Lindberg suit on Kerner pension?

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Illinois Comptroller George Lindberg Tuesday said he will take legal action if the Illinois pension board upholds an examiner's ruiling allowing former Gov. Otto Kerner, a convicted felon, to receive his state retirement benefits.

The hearing examiner, Chicago attorney Manuel J. Robbins, ruled Monday that Kerner is entitled to his pension even though he was found guilty in a racetrack stock bribery case.

A special meeting of the Illinois State Employes Retirement Board is scheduled for Monday in Chicago to decide whether to accept or reject Robbins' decision. Lindberg, whose office handles money for pension benefits, disagrees with Robbins' interpretation of the statutes, calling it "very inconsistent" with the state pension laws.

LINDBERG ALSO said a decision by the pension board to give Kerner $9,382 in back pension payments and $335 a month for the rest of his life would set a precedent.

"I can certainly see where there would be cases in the future where this problem could come up again," Lindberg said.

But Lindberg said he is "not sure what course I will follow" if the board upholds Robbins' decision. Lindberg said he may file suit or ask for an opinion from Atty. Gen. William Scott.

Kerner began receiving his state pension in 1969, a year after he resigned as governor to accept a seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals.

BUT HIS PENSION was stopped in July 1973, when a federal appeals court upheld his February 1973, conviction in the racetrack stock case.

Robbins ruled that since Kerner already had begun receiving payments from the system, he had a "vested right" in the system and an "enforceable contract" and was therefore entitled to the money.

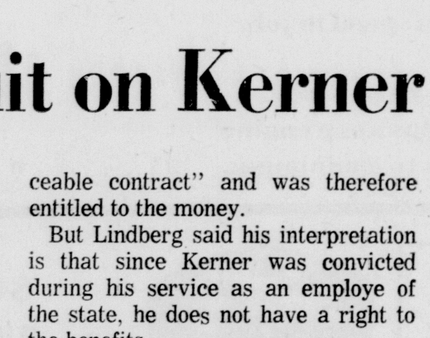

But Lindberg said his interpretation is that since Kerner was convicted during his service as an employe of the state, he does not have a right to the benefits.

"THIS IS NOT A political or personal attack on Kerner," Lindberg said. "This has established a precedent. The Kerner matter aside, I am concerned about the long-range effect this will have on the pension fund."

Lindberg and the pension system's executive secretary, Michael Morly, said they know of no cases involving state retirement systems that are similar to the Kerner case.

Morly said that if the board overturns Robbins' decision, he would expect Kerner's lawyers to file suit in circuit court.

Kerner, 67, has been in Illinois Masonic Medical Center in Chicago for more than a week because of weight loss,and a general decline in health following treatments for cancer. A cancerous turmor was removed from his right lung in March 1975, but the disease spread.

Bachelor Bill Mitchell

He's foster father to three teen boys

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

Bill Mitchell has a generous heart . . . but one tempered with common sense, tolerance and respect for appropriate discipline. Bill's a school teacher, and foster parent to five sons.

The 35-year-old Des Plaines bachelor now shares his home with three teenage foster sons. Two others continue to keep in touch.

"Whether they are your own or someone else's kids, each is different and should be treated as an individual. I insist upon one thing: honesty. Right or wrong, I want them to be honest with me. Then we take it from there," Bill explained his basic relationship with the boys. He makes no bones about problems they've had to work out.

Mitchell is no stranger to dealing with adolescents. He teaches speech and drama and group communications at Maine East High School in Des Plaines. He also manages student-operated radio station WMTH, broadcasting from four Maine Township high schools.

BILL TAUGHT SPEECH and drama for five years at a junior high in Muscatine, Iowa, before coming to Maine East six years ago. "I loved teaching! I still see some of those students."

His easy rapport with youngsters often results in their asking for his help, and reminds him of some of his own growing pains. Because he was unsure of his own life's plan, Mitchell worked in a pottery factory in his hometown of Monmouth, Ill., for three years after high school. "I didn't have the faintest idea what I wanted to do!" he confessed with a grin.

Getting nowhere in ceramics, Bill chose to teach. But he didn't know what, he said, until he took a course in drama at Western Illinois University in Macomb where he eventually earned a bachelor's in education. Then something clicked.

"I remembered that from first grade on, a friend and I attended plays his mother directed. I had forgotten how much I enjoyed drama." He's since gone on for a master's in communicating arts and sciences.

Because he likes kids, and they trust him and so often ask him for help, Mitchell now is thinking of going into guidance counseling and social work.

It was offering to help in the first place that made Bill a foster parent. He became acquainted with Chris, a 17-year-old Maine North student who was equipment operator for WMTH and who lived at Maryville Academy at the time. Chris visited a friend across the street from Bill's place, and Bill often drove him back to Maryville.

WHEN CHRIS WAS expelled from Maryville and began living with a sister in overcrowded conditions, Bill was there giving Chris support. "The next day or so a caseworker called asking me to take Chris, and I did."

About six weeks later, Bill became foster father to a second young man when Chris asked him to house a friend, Lenny. The two stayed a year and a half — a period not without adjustments but time well spent in Bill's opinion.

Bill's reward for sharing his home with two adolescents? "I gave them a place to live, and a chance to grow up" he answered candidly.

Chris now is married, and Lenny, who was away for awhile, is back.

Mitchell admits he's done some growing and changing himself as a parent . . . especially his ideas about discipline. "At first I was afraid to say no, but experience showed me that simply doesn't work. And I was too inclined to take punitive measures for whatever I considered misbehavior."

Because he strongly opposed smoking, for example, Bill refused to let the boys smoke in the house. "But I found out they were sneaking outside in the freezing weather to smoke, and I relented. Smoking is a bad habit I hate, but can tolerate, not a moral issue like lying and stealing," he explained his change of heart.

"What is important is that children learn to be responsible for their own actions," Bill believes. And speaking from his experience in teaching, he adds, "Educators have to let students fail. In life, you fail, and it is better to learn that fact while you are young."

LICENSED WITH Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, Mitchell provided a home for Jeff, now in eighth grade, and Mike, a high school freshman, when the older boys left.

Both boys were chronic runaways and continued to run even from Bill at first. Jeff since has been reunited with his own father, and Angel, Mike's friend, has taken his place in the family.

Bill feels genuine affection for his foster sons, all very different. "I've seen remarkable changes in the boys. I really feel like their father," he confided warmly.

He added another confidence. "Recently I received a note — one that really touched my heart — from Mike who began smoking at nine. The note read: I've stopped smoking for sure. Your son, Mike."

At home in their five-room rented house, Bill and sons share household chores. Bill generally cooks, but Lenny, now managing a night shift at a Jack-in-the-Box restaurant, sometimes prepares meals. The ylunger fellows do dishes. At times Bill has to tell them more than once to do any given job, but he thinks that's normal for kids that age.

Now the "testing" period is over, Bill says he has no significant problems with his foster family. And though the boys aren't adoptable, he wants them to stay with him until they are grown up, and always to feel welcome to come back. "The biggest issue we have now is just getting the homework done," he reported smiling.

CHALLENGE AND caring about others are what make being a foster parent worthwhile to Bill. He learned caring from his grandmother, he said. Ethel Mitchell was in charge of welfare in Warren County, and was promoted in the 1930s to head up WPA programs for the northern half of Illinois.

"I really admired her. She definitely was an early women's libber, but she remained feminine, insisting on good manners and respect from men," Bill remembered his grandmother in her career days.

BACHELOR FATHER . . . foster father, that is. Helping kids is a 24-hour proposition for Bill Mitchell, who teaches at Maine East, manages the township high school radio station and provides a home for three foster sons. Angel Aviles, center, and Mike Pollari both are freshmen at Maine East.

Marriage confers both privileges and obligations

Women and children first

by Julie Martoccio

Q. I'm planning to marry in June. Will my new status cause many legal changes?

A. Yes and it will also grant privileges and bind you with legal obligations.

Your husband will be responsible for supporting you even if you are independently wealthy. This right is being modified now that women are working and earning salaries.

A husband is responsible to provide "necessaries," a tricky definition that varies with his income. If your husband is an Onassis, the law might consider a mink coat, diamond ring, six homes scattered throughout the world, even a yacht as "necessaries," whereas a warm cloth coat and a second-hand car might fit the same definition if your husband has a modest job.

What if your husband insists that you get a job and help out because he's having financial difficulties? You can say no and be legally safe.

Suppose you lend him some money on condition that he return it? He's a debtor and you have a legal right to have it returned.

IF YOU'RE a working wife, you may keep what you earn, but you have a legal obligation to support your children if you are able.

Strictly speaking, you are both equally responsible for household debts. But usually, a creditor proceeds against the husband first, especially when the wife is unemployed.

You don't feel like working in his business? That's okay, but if you consent, he doesn't have to pay you a salary.

NO MATTER HOW hard he may try, your husband cannot disinherit you, even by will. By the laws of descent (Illinois) you have a right to a share in his property.

Under joint ownership, he can't cheat you by conveying your share of that property without your consent.

You also have the right to withdraw money from a joint bank account even if you didn't put in one cent.

Don't expect to shift your personal wrongs and debts to him, however. You have a right to sue, but you also may be sued personally.

You have the right to borrow money in your own name based upon your earnings.

GIFTS OF PERSONAL items from your husband (or anyone else) are yours to keep or dispose of as you see fit. They may include such items as bonds, stocks, automobiles, as well as clothing, jewelry or money.

You are legally expected to keep house with the money your husband gives you. If you are skillful in saving some from it, you may buy whatever you wish, providing you're not skimping on his needs.

In a divorce action, the courts generally favor the mother in granting custody of the children, especially if they are young. This is a changing area of decision, however.

Should you be married for 20 continuous years, then divorced, you are entitled to Social Security for that period of time. What if your ex-husband has a second wife? It doesn't matter.

If your husband dies, you are entitled to a Widow's Award and Homestead Right.

You are legally bound to meet your husband's sexual demands providing they are not excessive.

Your husband chooses, within reason, where you must live. Whither he goest, thou goest. If he decides to move again, it must be within reason, such as job, necessity or health.

A word of caution: The law of "wifehood" is shifting with the times and is subject to change without notice.

Could be your kitchen is why you're unhappy!

by BARBARA LADD

If only two burners on the stove work and the refrigerator barely keeps the milk cool, it's time to start thinking about remodeling. At least that's what one expert in kitchen remodeling believes.

"It's amazing what women put up with in kitchens," said Jan Brown, Skokie, a kitchen design consultant to Whirlpool Corp. and author of "Buy it Right," a consumer guide to buying home furnishings.

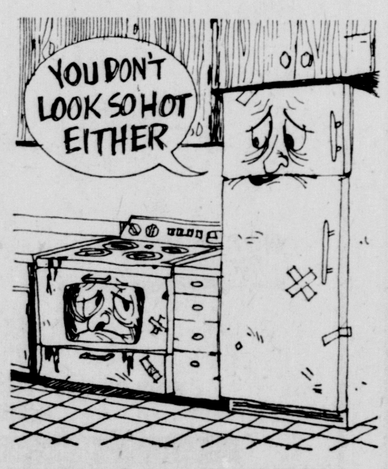

"What's funny," she said, "is that as women start working (outside the home) and men become more involved in the kitchen — aha! — suddenly it's self-cleaning ovens, frost-free refrigerators and dishwashers."

"WOMEN HAVE MORE self-esteem today," she continued. "If the husband works in an efficient, modern place, why shouldn't I!"

Mrs. Brown, who graduated in psychology and sociology from the University of Wisconsin, said poorly designed kitchens create extra work which is seldom noticed consciously. After awhile, however, impatience or resentment at seemingly unrelated situations can occur.

"A nice place to work is more conducive to a happy atmosphere," she said.

Most persons consider remodeling kitchens and other areas in the home when things look less attractive or when the design or appliances don't work for them anymore, she said.

BUT REDESIGNING a room is something most people feel uncomfortable doing. After rearing her family, Jan experienced new interest in her home and enrolled in a number of design and art courses. In 1968 she launched her own interior design studio and has since written numerous magazine and newspaper articles.

She suggests beginning a remodeling project by making a list of the things family members dislike about their kitchen. "Then ask neighbors and friends about their experiences so you don't repeat their mistakes," she said. She also feels that guidelines from a professional can save people a great deal of time, anguish and money.

FORGETTING TO plan for left-handed family members who might do a lot of cooking is one of the most common mistakes. But that's closely followed by misplacement of appliances, said Mrs. Brown.

For example, if the kitchen has a double sink, garbage disposals should be put on the side nearest the dishwasher for convenience, she said. "One family didn't think about that and had to pay a plumber to come back and change it."

Also, for energy's sake, refrigerators should be placed away from sunny windows and stoves, said Mrs. Brown. Double ovens are better for families who entertain a lot; meal-timer ovens are good where everyone works outside the home; refrigerators should be four to five cubic feet per family individual in size, she said.

Then there are the more usual kitchen-planning rules-of-thumb, she said. A triangle from the sink to the refrigerator to the cooking area should be about 22 feet total. "Larger than that and you're doing too much unnecessary work. Much smaller and things are too squished together," she said.

"YOU WANT TO make the kitchen work for you instead of being a slave to it," she said.

There are four appliances Mrs. Brown said are essential to an efficient kitchen: a cooking range, a dishwasher, a garbage disposal and a refrigerator.

"If a family can't afford to buy all the appliances at once but they want them to match, temporary color panels are now available to match the old appliances until all are the desired color."

"But I don't think everything necessarily has to match," she added.

She estimated the four basic appliances could be purchased or replaced for around $1,500, although most people wait 10 or 12 years before doing so.

"IT'S AMAZING TO me that people replace a car every few years, but something like a kitchen, which they use at least three times a day, they wait forever."

In her discussions with appliance engineers, she learned they feel no drastic changes will be made in appliances in the next 10 or so years.

"The big technological advances have been perfected," she said, listing self-cleaning ovens, frost-free freezers, dishwashers and garbage disposals.

"Anyway, women don't want super-modern, push-button kitchens," she said.

Over the past few years there has been a boom in home remodeling, said Mrs. Brown. Fewer new houses are being built, with families staying in homes they originally thought of as temporary and people discovering "the charms of older homes," she said.

A BOOKLET, compiled by Mrs. Brown, describes the basic types of kitchen design, the sizes and proper placement of appliances and includes before-and-after floor plans showing how six problem kitchens were remodeled for greater efficiency, comfort and attractiveness.

Meditation can help one relax

I have been going to meditation classes and would like your opinion as to how beneficial you think meditation is in helping to relieve headaches, tension, etc.

I feel rested and refreshed after meditation for about 15 minutes. My husband is a very tense and restless person, and he suffers from severe headaches. I wish he would try meditation and "let go" of some of his tensions.

There are a number of unpleasant symptoms that people have which are related to tension. I am certainly in favor of whatever methods people learn to use that enable them to relax. Some people benefit from self-hypnosis; others might benefit from meditation as you have, if in the process they learn to be able to induce relaxation. Still others benefit from a short 10-to-15 minute nap.

One of the things that helps remove tension is a change in personal habits. This includes eliminating caffeine, which is a cerebral stimulant and has the opposite effect of tranquilizers.

The main sources of caffeine are coffee, tea and colas. Those who want more information about these beverages can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 1-1, Coffee, Tea, Cola, Cocoa. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Many individuals who ingest excessive amounts of caffeine throughout the day will find that they won't need to develop new methods for relaxation if they'll eliminate the caffeine.

We all know that venereal disease can destroy brain cells and even kill. I have heard that the correct diagnosis and treatment of these and other horrible diseases are dependent upon whether or not the patient is socially or politically cooperative. That is, I suspect that there is a conscious policy of the American Medical Assn. to control behavior by giving or withholding needed treatment and medication. Will you verify this? Will you even print this letter?

I am printing it so many of your fellow citizns can see what kind of wild ideas are rampant in some segments of our society. As diversified and geographically widespread as the medical profession is, initiating and carrying out such a policy would be totally impossible.

Earlier in this century, before penicillin, one research study was carried out in a southern state where some individuals were not treated for syphilis. That study is the only such example of non-treatment that I know of. A similar study was done in Oslo, Norway, for the same reason — the scientific zeal of finding out how effective treatment was compared to not providing treatment. I certainly feel that this would be misguided today in the light of the available successful treatment for venereal disease.

Knowing how cantankerous and difficult some of my own colleagues are, and how they disagree so violently with each other, I am sure that there would be one real fight in trying to get very many doctors to agree on what was socially acceptable and what one had to do to be politically cooperative. I think you've got our country confused with some other countries of the world. We have our problems, but we still enjoy the greatest amount of freedom and, incidentally, the best medical service to the public of any people in the world.

Chuck roast fails to pass taste test

Dear Dorothy: I'm amused by your comments on your husband's aversion to chuck. If he dislikes it that much, how do you get away with it? Maybe you have a trick we all should know. I'm serious — my guy squawks, too.—Denny Wantland Pushed my luck too far. Made a new chuck roast, and to my taste buds, it was ambrosia. His nibs ate it without comment, although he passed up the vegetable add-ons.

Planning on going out the next evening, I thought of the left-overs and goofed, asking how he'd liked the dish. He looked serene and said, "I was a gentleman and held my tongue. Since you ask, if I never face it again the rest of my life, I'll be ahead." A barbarian.

Anyway, for those of you who go for chuck, brown a well-marbled chuck roast, sprinkle on salt and pepper, one envelope of meat flavoring and two teaspoons of Worcestershire sauce. Cut up two carrots and two celery ribs in chunks and one sliced onion. No water. Just cover and let it cook in the oven at 200 degrees. It can cook anywhere from six hours to all day and baste once or twice. About 25 minutes before dinner-time, rinse a can of tiny white potatoes. Use half the can, iet it come to a boil, drain and add to the roast.

Dear Dorothy: Is it true that mulching a garden with foil gives more vegetables — and better ones?—Wendy Harris

When you mulch with anything and keep the weeds down or out, the nutrients in the soil are going to go into the vegetables and not into making the weeds luxuriant. Foil is fine.

Look Younger For Springtime

Spring is the season when your spirits lift as you look forward to pleasant weather after a long, dreary winter. But springtime, with its sudden wind gusts and rapid changes of temperature can be hard on your skin, drying it so you can look older than you'd like. You can look older than necessary as early as your twenties, you know. Nature's own supply of moisture and oil has begun to slow down by then, so your skin becomes dryer and its radiant youthful appearance may start to slip away.

The past winter probably hasn't helped either. Look what you've put your skin through! You've gone between icy outdoor weather and drying indoor heat over and over again. That's like taking your face through all the climates of the world day after day. An honest look in your mirror will show you what winter has done to your skin.

Happily, you can begin to look your youngest for springtime almost before the first crocuses bloom. Join the younger-looking women of all ages from many parts of the world who share the secret of a remarkable beauty fluid that helps every woman look her youngest.

This unique beauty fluid, discovered by beauty connoisseurs, is known in the United States as Oil of Olay beauty lotion. The remarkable fluid works with nature in a mysterious way to ease away skin dryness so you can look just as young as you can.

Oil of Olay acts like your own natural moisture to work on dryness. Pure moisture and tropical oils penetrate your skin's surface deeply and astonishingly quickly, with never a greasy afterfeel. You'll see your skin grow softer and smoother almost the moment you soothe on the skin-loving liquid.

Oil of Olay, faithfully every morning, under makeup or to give your skin a moist environment. Again, faithfully, every night.

You'll find Oil of Olay at your drugstore. You may get the beautiful feeling that your skin is living in an ideal moisty, misty eternal spring.

Spring Beauty Secret

As the weather improves, you'll be more on the go. Be sure that Oil of Olay® travels with you everywhere, in your purse or suitcase.

Ask Andy

Earthworm may have five hearts

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Tammy Paxton, 11, of Summersville, W. Va., for her question:

HOW MANY HEARTS DOES AN EARTHWORM HAVE?

If the earthworm would poke his head above ground long enough in the daytime, he might find out that he is something of a national hero. He is especially important to farmers and other prople who grow their own food. Over the years he has earned the title of Nature's Plowman, and he doesn't even know it. Enriching the soil just comes naturally to him.

The earthworm is also called the fishworm, angleworm and night crawler. A peek at his innards reveals something like a plumber's nightmare, with pipes running this way and that, up and down, over and around. The largest pipe is the one that handles food. The next largest pipe is the central nerve cord, followed by five smaller blood-circulating pipes.

The main blood vessel is located in the top portion of the earthworm's body on top of his long digestive tube. This is called the dorsal vessel. Like the other four primary vessels, it runs from the front of his body all the way down to his tail end. The dorsal vessel differs from the other blood vessels in that it has valves, to prevent backward leakage, and also muscles to pump the blood.

The second largest blood vessel is found just underneath the food tube and is called the ventral vessel. The ventral vessel and three smaller vessels handle the flow of blood from the front of the body back to the tail.

In the front portion of the earthworm's body are five pairs of tubes that connect the dorsal vessel to the ventral vessel. Each of these five pairs of tubes is called an aortic arch — or heart. So it would seem that the earthworm has five hearts. But some experts maintain that the muscular dorsal vessel is the true earthworm heart. If this is the case, the earthworm is back in the same boat as most other animals with only one heart to his name.

The earthworm's blood consists of a fluid called plasma and colorless corpuscles. The plasma is colored red by the hemoglobin in it. The blood circulates from the dorsal vessel down through the aortic arches into the ventral vessel. From the ventral vessel it flows into smaller capillaries that service the body wall. Other capillaries return the blood from the body tissue to three smaller vessels that flow back into the dorsal vessel.

In addition to a circulatory system, the earthworm's body also contains a nervous system, a digestive system and an excretory system. Unlike many of the higher developed animals, it lacks an organized respiratory system. However, tiny capillaries close to its moist outer skin take care of exchanging waste carbon dioxide gas for fresh oxygen.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Darin Mazutinec, 9, of Picture Butte, Alta., Canada, for his question:

WHAT EXACTLY IS THE RICHTER SCALE?

The Richter scale is named after its American inventor, Charles F. Richter, a seismologist. Seismologists are scientists who study earthquake phenomena, and the development of the Richter scale in 1935 has greatly helped them measure the strength of any given earthquake. Actually the Richter scale is a system using information given by a seismograph, an instrument that records an earthquake's ground motion. Richter magnitude is a number derived from the seismograph, and indicates the relative strength of an earthquake.

On the Richter scale each number represents an earthquake 10 times as strong as one of the next lower magnitude. An earthquake of magnitude 7, for example, is 10 times as severe as one of magnitude 6. Although more than 1,000 earthquakes with a magnitude of at least 2 occur daily, seismologists consider these minor tremors. In fact, an earthquake registering 5 or less usually causes no severe damage. The recent devastating Guatemalan quake, however, was extremely harsh. It registered a whopping 7.5 on the Richter scale during its brief 39-second life.

4 Channel Headphones

by Ed Landwehr

More and more interest is accumulating about 4-speaker or quadsonic sound. Someone asked at Landwehr's TV & Appliances, "How can you get quadsonic sound on earphones when you only have two ears?"

Quadsonic sound from four speakers can be readily noticed and enjoyed, but everyone doesn't agree on the 4 channel earphones. Experiments show that some sounds have more effect in earphones than others. It actually comes down to the individual; you listen and decide for yourself.

Our main service is television but sound equipment maintenance is growing more each year. Try the electronic servicing number 255-0700 or come in to 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights. We'll please you. We're sure.

East's play assures set

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

We aren't going to go into the merit or lack of merit in West's opening lead of the jack of hearts. Suffice to say that a spade lead would have killed the contract, while the heart lead only defeated it because East came up with a beautiful defensive play.

East cashed his ace and king of hearts and saw that if he wanted to find a way to defeat the contract he would have to establish a black-card entry in his partner's hand.

He was looking at 12 high-card points in his own hand and 18 high-card points in dummy. That left 10 for West and South. West had already shown up with that one point represented by the jack of hearts. South needed six for his notrump response to the diamond opening. If West held the king and jack of clubs that would only leave five for South, but West could hold the queen of spades and South still have seven, so East plunked down his king of spades and knocked South right out of the box.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The Illinois Department of Public Health has established the sum of $90,000.00 as the level of uncompensated services to be made available by the Alexian Brothers Medical Center in the period from January 1, 1976 to December 31, 1976. The level of such services is measured by the difference between the amount charged such persons for the services and the reasonable cost thereof.

The level set out above meets the presumptive compliance guideline of the Federal regulations and is at least 10 per cent of all Federal assistance provided to the facility under the Hospital and Medical Facilities Construction Act.

To cost $3.4 million

County plans to buy vote system

by WANDALYN RICE

The Cook County Board Tuesday tentatively agreed to buy a new computer punch-card voting system for use in the November election.

The board, meeting as the finance committee, unanimously voted to approve purchase of the punch-card system, which will replace the present lever-type voting machines in more than half the precincts in Cook County in the fall.

The board formally must ratify the decision at its regular meeting Monday and also will approve the expenditure of about $3.4 million for the new system.

COUNTY ELECTION Director Bartley Burns said the punch-card system probably will be installed in two Congressional districts in suburban Cook County for the November election. He said the decision of where to put the new system "is some months off."

Suburban Comr. Carl Hansen of Mount Prospect said he was "very pleased" with the new system and will urge county election officials to put it into the Northwest suburb's 12th Congressional District.

He said, "I think this system will help enormously with the understanding of the voter."

The computer system under consideration by the county board is the Votamatic system manufactured by Computer Election Services (CES) of Berkeley, Calif. In that system, the ballots are computer punch cards which are tabulated using a mini-computer in each polling place.

The final conversion to the system will be made by the county by 1978. A complete conversion could not be made this year because CES told county officials it would not furnish enough mini-computers for all the county's 2,200 polling places.

The county officially will not approve purchase of the CES system until formal bidding procedures, which may result in bidding by other punch-card companies.

HOWEVER, John Gerbel, vice president of CES, told the county board that as part of a purchase agreement, the company will loan the county lever-type voting machines for precincts where the Votamatic is not installed.

The loan, which would cost the county only for transportation and storage, would mean the county would not have to spend money to upgrade its prtsent lever-type machines. Many of these machines are too small to accommodate all the candidates who will be running in the November election.

County Board Pres. George Dunne said the new system, which is smaller and easier to store than the present machines, will save the county $152,000 in storage costs in non-election years and $400,000 in storage and transportation costs in election years.

MSD disclosure debate Thursday

The Metropolitan Sanitary District Board of Commissioners will consider a proposal to require all board members to disclose their financial worth during an MSD board meeting Thursday.

Comr. Joanne Alter said Tuesday she plans to bring up Thursday her proposal for required financial disclosure, which she first made several months ago. The measure would require disclosure by MSD commissioners and by top staff of the agency.

Mrs. Alter said her proposal was prompted by the federal grand jury investigation that reportedly is centering on several MSD commissioners and staff members in an alleged bribery scheme involving a sludge hauling operation between Cook County and MSD property in downstate Fulton County.

Recent reports have indicated that federal indictments in the MSD investigation may come as soon as this week.

Malpractice suit limits proposed in Shea bills

House Democratic Leader Gerald Shea has introduced a package of bills designed to restrict and limit medical malpractice suits.

Among other things, the bills would:

Permit doctors to file countersuits against persons who sue for malpractice and the lawyers who represent them.

- Prohibit awards for alleged "pain and suffering." A "fact sheet" distributed by Shea said, "Windfall recoveries for unjustified claims of pain and suffering encourage suits seeking damages much greater than actual losses."
- Require that any medical expert testifying at a malpractice trial be in practice in the area where the incident occurred.
- Guarantee that patients who win malpractice suits get at least 80 per cent of the first $50,000 they are awarded; 85 per cent of the next $50,000 and 90 per cent of any award in excess of $100,000.

Protesters hit ERA

Several hundred "Stop ERA" demonstrators sang songs and passed out loaves of homemade bread in hhe Capitol rotunda Tuesday, urging lawmakers not to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment and protesting a national pro-ERA rally scheduled here next month.

National Stop ERA Chairman Mrs. Phyllis Schlafly led the contingent. The demonstration included lobbying. It is unlikely the amendment will be brought to a ratification vote this year in Illinois.

House mulls death penalty

Illinois House leaders voted Tuesday to consider new death penalty legislation during the spring session.

The House Rules Committee voted 12-0 to permit bills sponsored by Reps. Roman Kosinski, D-Chicago, and Romie Palmer, R-Blue Island, to be heard by the House Judiciary Committee. A death penalty law passed two years ago was ruled unconstitutional by the Illinois Supreme Court, leaving the state unable to impose any sentences.

Illinois briefs

$145 million to public aid

The Illinois Senate Appropriations Committee Tuesday approved a deficiency appropriation of $145.6 million for the Dept. of Public Aid.

The bill (H3358), which now goes to the full Senate, would provide enough money for the department to pay welfare benefits for the rest of the present fiscal year, which ends June 30.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Don Moore, R-Midlothian, would provide $50.3 million for families with dependent children and $90.7 million for medical payments. Another $4.6 million would go for aged, blind and disabled recipients whose checks would stop May 1 without the emergency funding.

The measure passed by a vote of 11-4 after only a few minutes of debate.

Pubic Aid Director James Trainor told the committee medical costs are chiefly responsible for driving up the department's budget.

Trainor cited a 20 per cent increase this fiscal year in medical assistance while aid to dependent children has gone up less than 2 per cent.

Card streak reaches 100 with 3-2 win

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Tennis Editor

Arlington's 100th straight Mid-Suburban League tennis victory might have been closer Tuesday afternoon, but not by much.

The Cardinals dramatically won three tough singles matches to gain the points necessary for their 3-2 win but then Prospect's doubles teams clawed out three-set victories to avert the shutout before a large crowd at the Arlington courts.

Tom Pitchford's crew extended their current MSL record to 9-0 and knocked Prospect out of first. The Knights are now 5-1 in the league.

"Tom's kids played really tough," said Prospect coach Jim Gelhaar. "I thought some good tennis was played by both teams."

Paul Wei and Dan Hanson, probably the two best tennis players in the conference, staged a bitter fight at No. 1 singles with Wei winning the opening set 6-3 and then taking the match 7-6 on a 7-3 tiebreaker.

Arlington's Pete Burkhardt, playing at No. 3 singles, was the first Cardinal done for the evening as he turned back Steve Chelberg 6-2, 6-4.

Only the No. 2 match went three sets.

John Wallner of Arlington took the first set easily 6-2 before Prospect's Dave Hughson recovered and won the second, 6-4.

Wallner settled down then and pinched the deciding point 6-1, with his control and placement.

Prospect's doubles teams of Paul Mallon and Jim Bryja and Mike Wood and Dave Tambeaux then took their matches, both in three sets, to wind up the scoring.

"Prospect played tough," said Arlington coach Tom Pitchford, who celebrated his teams' 100th straight win with some new shirts that said 1966-1976, 100-0, MORE TO GO.

"I think this kind of win will make us a little more dedicated. It showed them what they have to improve on.

"There was a helluva lot of pressure on these kids. Pressure of going for the 100th and the pressure of being expected to win.

"I will say this, though. Both teams won and lost like gentlemen."

Despite all the attention given to Arlington's streak, there was a full load of tennis around the area Tuesday.

Both Forest View and Palatine, sitting near the top of the MSL, posted 5-0 wins.

Forest View blitzed Schaumburg, winning all five matches in straight sets.

The Falcons' domination was so complete they allowed only 10 points the entire day.

Palatine, in third place with a 5-1 mark and holding a slim two point edge over fourth place Forest View, shut out Elk Grove.

The Pirates handled the Grens in straight sets themselves with Mike Esenberg, Mike Stowe and Phil Groesbeck picking up singles points.

Rolling Meadows, fresh from an upset victory over Hersey, continued their own streak with a 3-2 edging of Conant.

Singles players Brad Weber and Jeff Jay and the No. 1 doubles team of Kent Walker and Jeff Corrado won the necessary points for the Mustangs.

Fremd scraped out singles points from Bob Milligan and Mike Mitsch en route to a 3-2 win over Hersey.

The win left the Vikings at 3-2 on the season.

Buffalo Grove went ahead of the game with their 5-0 win over Hoffman Estates.

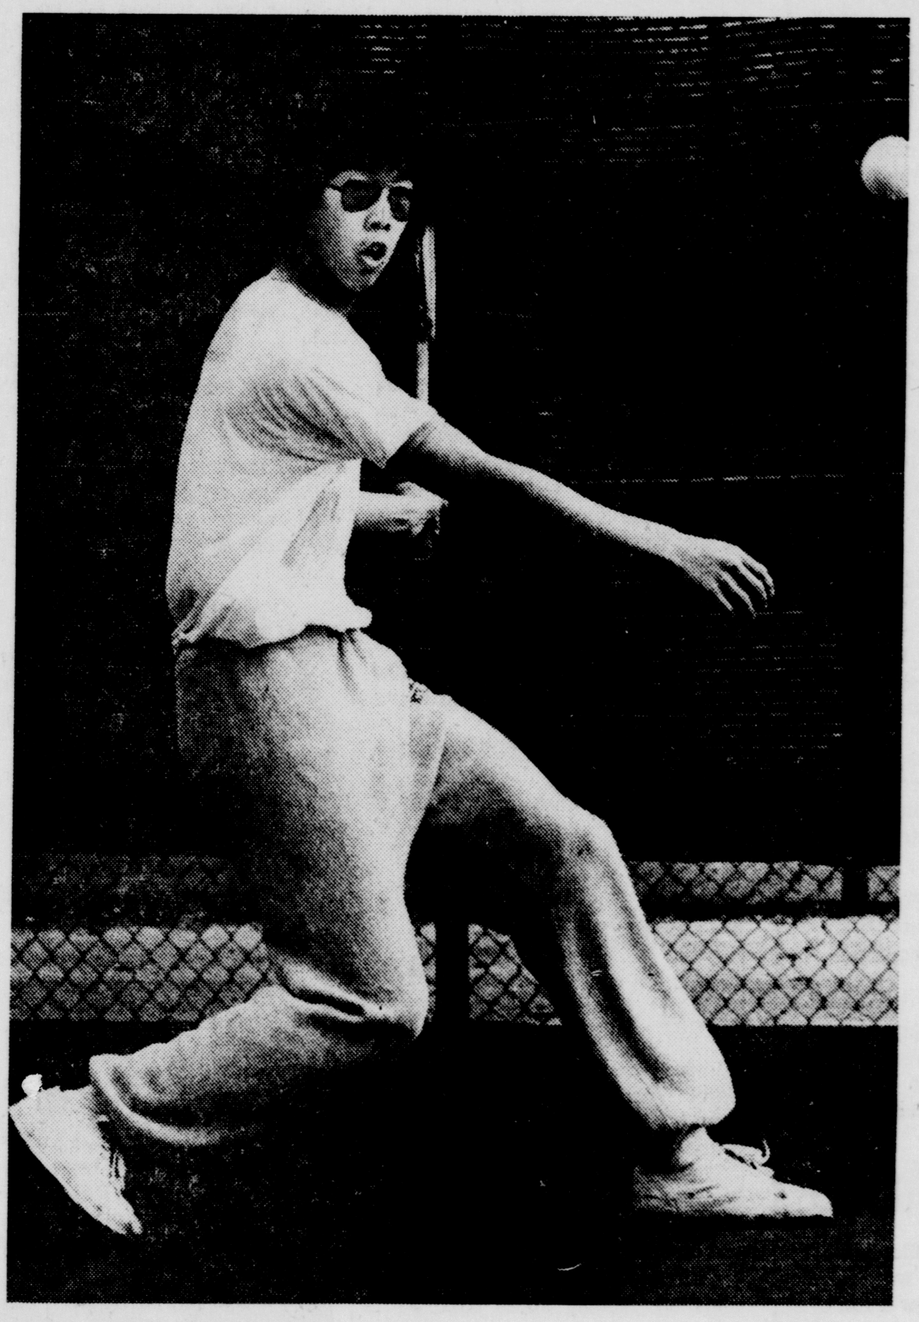

The Bison improved their record to 5-4 as Bill Christensen and George Bastable won three-set singles points.

Maine West fell to 0-2 in the Central Suburban League with a 3-2 loss to Glenbrook South.

Taking points for the Warriors was Bob Wyatt and Tom Gebhardt at No. 2 and No. 3 singles.

Mike Doering's jacket came off later as action heated up in Mid-Suburban tennis drama.

Cardinal Paul Wei strokes his way to No. 1 singles victory.

Cubs' relievers preserve 4-2 win over San Diego

From Herald Wire Services

Oscar Zamora and Buddy Schultz gave the Cubs' tired pitching staff a lift when the pair paraded out of the bullpen in the eighth inning to smother a San Diego rally and preserve a 4-2 victory for starter Ray Burris.

Burris yielded only six hits in eight and one-third innings of work, but the Padres threatened in the eighth when -Dave Winfield drew a one-out walk and Doug Rader and Mike Ivie both singled to produce a run.

Zamora came on and was touched for the RBI base hit by Ivie, but induced Hector Torrez to hit into a fielder's choice and Schultz mopped up by blowing a third strike past pinch-hitting Gene Locklear.

Burris overcame early control problems when he walked the bases loaded in the first inning, but escaped unscathed.

The big righthander held the Padres hitless during the middle three innings, recovering from Hector Torrez' third homer of the season in the second inning.

The Cubs took a short-lived 1-0 advantage on Manny Trillo's run-producing single in the second, but the Padres tied the count when Torrez lined the first home run of the year off Burris into the leftfield seats.

Despite three singles and a San Diego error in the third inning, the Cubs managed only one run as Jose Cardenal was shot down at the plate, attempting to score from thrd on a popup to deep second.

The Cubs came up empty-handed in the fourth although the first four men in the inning reached base successfully. The rally-killer was Andy Thornton's hesitation between bases while attempting to score from second on Steve Swisher's wall-banging double to left. Thornton, too, was easily cut down at home.

Burris received a fatter cushion in the fifth inning when the Cubs erupted for two runs on Cardenal's leadoff double, a single by Jerry Morales and Trillo's sacrifice fly, his 10th run batted in for the season.

Frazier-Foreman battle June 15

Former heavyweight champions Joe Frazier and George Foreman Tuesday signed to meet June 15 at the Nassau Veterans Coliseum in a $2 million-plus, 12-round figh which will probably earn the winner another shot at Muhammad Ali's title.

Ali, who defends his championship against Jimmy Young in Washington this Friday and then travels to Munich, Germany, for a May 25 date with European champion Richard Dunne of Britain, has yet to agree to meet the winner of the June 15 fight, but both Frazier and Foreman have been mentioned in his future plans. This will be the second meeting between Frazier and Foreman, who have each been guaranteed $1 million, plus 35 per cent of certain parts of the gross receipts.

In their only previous meeting, Jan. 22, 1973, at Kingston, Jamaica, Foreman won the championship with a second round knockout after knocking Frazier down six times.

Area products receive cage bids

Dave Corzine of Arlington Heights and his DePaul teammate, Ron Norwood, should receive word shortly whether they will be among 50 of the best amateur basketball talent in the country to be invited to the Olympic tryout camp.

The pair are two of only 100 athletes currently being screened by the Olympic players selection committee, which will trim the list down to 50.

The committeee first contacted players they were interested in and asked them to complete a questionnaire, said Gene Sullivan DePaul athletic director. "We expect to get final word any day now," he said.

The final 50 basketball players will report to the Olympic tryout camp which will be held May 30 to June 6 at North Carolina State University. There, coach Dean Smith will select the team who will represent the U.S. in the Olympic games this summer.

"I feel it would be virtually impossible for us to get two players on the squad, but one would be a great honor," Sullivan said. "We're glad to get the nominations. It means there's some people out in the world who recognize that we have some talent here."

Boston, Montreal open with wins

Dallas Smith and Gregg Sheppard scored goals 1 minute 48 seconds apart in the third period Tuesday night to give the Boston Bruins a 4-2 victory over the Philadelphia Flyers in the opening game of their NHL semifinal playoff. The victory snapped the Flyers' NHL record streak of 24 consecutive victories at home.

The game was tied 2-2 in the third period when Smith picked up a loose puck and went streaking down the left-hand side to score off Flyers' goalie Bernie Parent at 4:29. After a faceoff, Bruins' forward Wayne Cashman fed Sheppard the puck and the center beat Parent on his right-hand side 6:17.

Yvan Cournoyer's goal with 5:16 to go in the third period Tuesday night gave the Montreal Canadiens a 3-2 victory over the New York Islanders in the opening game of their NHL Stanley Cup semifinal playoff series.

Cournoyer took the puck after Jacques Lemaire had won a faceoff near the New York goal and fired a high shot into the corner of the Islanders' cage, past goalie Billy Smith. Montreal had tied the game two minutes earlier when Larry Robinson got a rebound from teammate Doug Jarvis and drilled the puck past Smith.

White Sox to play under the sun

Perhaps taking a cue from their north side counterparts the Cubs, the White Sox Tuesday decided to take advantage of any warmth the sun has to offer and go back to playing day baseball, for a few days anyway.

With the weatherman calling for temperatures at night to approach the low to mid 30's, Sox president Bill Veeck called off Tuesday's scheduled game with Milwaukee and reset it for Thursday afternoon. Today's scheduled night game with Milwaukee has also been moved up to a day contest, starting at 1:15 p.m.

Thursday's game will be family day, with families getting in for half price.

"Rather than inconvenience the fans and subject them to uncomfortable cold temperatures we have decided to reschedule the two nights as afternoon games," Veeck said. "We have to play some games or we'll forget how to play."

Baseball-less Washington unhappy

Professional baseball's decision not to establish a team in the nation's capital is a broken commitment and may lead to congressional action to remove "special status treatment," two congressmen said Tuesday. Reps. B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., and Frank Horton, R-N.Y., who have led the congressional fight to get professional baseball back to Washington, said in a joint statement, "With baseball abandoning Washington, we may simply have to abandon base- reject proposals to expand to Washington meant that organized ball."

They said the decision by National League owners Monday to baseball "broke its commitment to the nation's capital. The owners simply violated their word." They said, "Both leagues have gone back on their commitment to restore baseball to Washington and they should be held accountable."

Second-guessing will continue

The use of television's instant replay in pro football officiating is under study but won't be used in the near future, according to Art McNally, supervisor of National Football League officials. McNally said the use of instant replay would, as he sees it, cause more problems that it would solve.

"We would have to use a minimum of 12 cameras," he said. "Actually, I think we would need 16 to catch every angle."

He said this would cause problems of long delays in games while officials reviewed a particular play and would destroy the continuity of the game. McNally also said instant replay as an officiating tool might tend to inhibit officials in making the tough call.

Crawford's warming up with 160-5 discus toss

by ART MUGALIAN

When everything falls into place for Schaumburg's Brad Crawford — when the weather is just right and when the motivation is there — he may surprise an awful lot of people.

Crawford is already the best discus thrower in the Mid-Suburban League, and Tuesday at Forest View he threw 160 feet 5 inches, shattering his own Saxon record by nearly seven feet.

But Crawford said he wasn't feeling too good.

"I don't know, I didn't really feel much like throwing today," said the tall Saxon senior who will be attending Drake on a football scholarship next fall.

Crawford threw 153-11 to win a first-place medal at the Palatine Relays Saturday in a driving rain. At the Lancer Relays he was hampered by a vicious crosswind. A meet at Crown where he threw 153 was rain-marred.

"Brad really hasn't had a good day to throw on," said Schaumburg weight coach John Selke. "I think when he gets a nice day with the wind behind him he's going to do really well."

Selke figures that Crawford is a good bet to break the MSL record of 169-6. And come district time, Brad should be able to write his own ticket to Charleston for the state meet.

"I think his best last year was 141 feet," said Selke, "but I knew he had potential if just because of his size. He's a real hard worker and now he's concentrating on the disc."

Crawford, about 6-2 and 200 pounds, also runs the high hurdles and throws the shot occasionally. But his specialty is the discus. He started running the hurdles indoors to combat boredom.

"We work on the discus all the time now so I never run the hurdles in practice," said Crawford after he had finished second in the highs to Forest View's Jim Vartanian.

Three victories for for Vartanian, including a :14.7 in the highs and a :10.2 in the 100-dash, and a pair of wins each for Steve Schellengerger, Mike Harvey and Darryl Robinson led the Falcons to a 84-62 decision over Schaumburg in the dual meet.

Schellenberger, the IHSA Class AA 880 champ last spring, ran a 1:57.8 in his specialty and came back for a :52.5 in the 440 passing Schaumburg's Steve Pace in the last 100 yards. Robinson, a junior, won the mile (4:40) and the two-mile (9:56). Harvey won the long jump (20-1) and the triple jump (41-8).

Schaumburg, hampered by injuries, got good performances from pole vaulter Mark Sterle (12-0), and junior Mike Christy, who won the 220 in :23.2.

Prospect, meanwhile, trimmed Conant 86-60 as junior Brad Millar won three events and Jim Wright, Scott Kraegel and Mark Smith each captured two firsts.

Millar high jumped 6-2 and long jumped 21-1½ for his best outdoor mark in that event after reaching 22-1 indoors. And Wright won the high hurdles and the lows, taking the latter event in :40.0 as he edged Conant's Sam Assil (:40.2).

Smith, a sophomore, won the two-mile (9:44.2) and completed a noteworthy double by winning the mile in 4:36.2. Kraegel, just a freshman, captured the 100 (:10.6) and the 220.

Conant's Brian Foss win the 880 in 2:02.2 and teammate Brett Anderson, pole vaulting on the varsity level, set a sophomore school record and took first place at 12-10½.

Palatine edged Hersey 69-68 in a dual meet as junior Tony Vargas won the mile (4:44.4) and the two-mile (9:54) and Bill Finlay took the 100 (:10.3) and the 220.

Hersey's Dave Koelper won the long jump and the triple jump, Dave Komiss shot (50-8) and the discus, and Bruce Granquist won the 880 in 2:02.3.

Rolling Meadows beat Highland Park, Stevenson and Glenbrook South in a quad as Rich Huber, Dave Boursaw, and Jeff Lund took two wins each. Huber, with a 145-5 in the disc and a 50-10 in the shot, turned in his best efforts of the season.

Harper takes pair in Joliet

Harper took a doubleheader from Joliet Tuesday to run their N4C record to 5-3 and their over-all slate to a fine 15-4.

The Hawks got a pair of fine pitching performances as Dave Patterson fanned 13 and gave up a single earned run to win the opener, 6-4.

Dar Townsend went the route in the nightcap, holding Joliet back 3-2 in eight innings.

Gary Oslance's two-run double and Howie Brauer's two-run homer, both in the third inning, provided the necessary wood to win the opener.

Dave Mnichowicz homered in the top of the eighth to wi the second game, after being denied a base when he was hit on the hand by a pitch.

Buffalo Grove, Marshall blank Hoffman

A Herald staff report

A duel in the sun at Buffalo Grove was predicted to be the feature area baseball attraction Tuesday as a number of teams took advantage of a break in the skies — if not the temperatures — to dent their makeup schedules.

The shootout lived up to its billing too. Two of the Mid-Suburban's top gunslingers, Bison Mike Marshalll and Ray Gawron of Hoffman Estates mowed 'em down like Doc Holiday and Bat Masterson at the O.K. Corral until finally, in the ninth inning, a pair of miscues proved costly to the Hawks and Buffalo Grove stood alone in the sunset gripping a 1-0 victory.

The Bison and Hawks had both taken unblemished 3-0 loop slates into the contest. And while the South Division is now without an undefeated entry, the North still has two, with Buffalo Grove's conquest moving them into a tie with idle Arlington at the top of the heap.

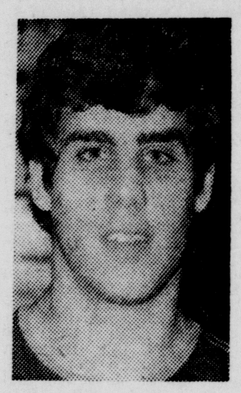

Marshall, the sophomore phenom, and Gawron, the seasoned vet, had both taken 2-0 MSL won-loss logs into the fray. Gawron, in fact, had not allowed a run of any kind over the past 15 innings of league pitching going back to last season and had reeled off six personal victories in a row.

Gawron's string of goose eggs was up to 23 when Steve Chobanian singled to lead off the bottom of the ninth and was sacrificed along to second by Steve Pfister. Dave Martin then grounded back to the pitcher while Chobanian held and Gawron was probably breathing easier when Bill Donato, the ninth man in the batting order, slapped a grounder toward third.

The ball was booted, however, and rolled slowly into the outfield as Chobanian prepared to turn the corner at third base. When it was mishandled in left as well, only a perfect peg would have nailed the runner at the plate but Hawk catcher Randy Brown saw only the bright glare of the sun and held up his arms in futility while Chobanian zipped across the plate.

Gawron struck out nine and allowed only five hits while absorbing the loss. Marshall meanwhile, fanned 11 and scattered just three infield hits in notching the win. Marshall's most anxious moments were suffered in the fourth and seventh.

Rich Lindow beat out a bunt single with one away in the top of the fourth and stole second. An out later Brown was plunked with a pitch but Brown was then forced at second to end the threat.

Mike Marshall

Ray Gawron

In the seventh Brown walked with one away, pilfered second and advanced to third when two Grove infielders collided on Joe Parille's bounder up the middle.

Parille then stole second too but Marshall got Wayne Jackson to pop up and Mike Bynes to ground out while Brown perished just 90 feet from home.

PIRATES END DROUGHT

Palatine won its first MSL game of the year with a 4-1 decision over Prospect in a make-up contest played at Prospect Tuesday.

Pirate junior righthander Mark Menke struck out nine Knight batters and permitted just four hits as he sent Prospect to its second straight loss after three opening league victories. In posting his first MSL win, Menke set Palatine's record at 1-3 for the young season.

The game went into the bottom of the sixth in a 1-1 deadlock, but a pair of Prospect errors turned things around. First, Palatine catcher Dan McSweeney was safe at second on an infield error. Kevin Carrier bunted but the throw to first went into right field. When he headed for second the return throw went wild and McSweeney scored the go-ahead run.

After two were out, Tony Zara drove in a couple of insurance runs with a ground single into center field.

The hit by Zara was only the second of the game for the Pirates. The first was a single in the second by Bruce Peterson which scored Carrier. Carrier had reached on a dropped third strike and advanced on a walk and sacrifice.

Prospect had taken a first-inning lead with a fluke run of its own off Menke. Leadoff man Mike Crnich took first base when his third strike got away from McSweeney, and ht eventually scored on a ground out by Dave Thoma.

The victory marked the first time that a Palatine team coached by Al Berman had beaten Prospect.

WHEELING WHIPS GROVE

Walks and errors allowed Wheeling to push across a pair of unearned runs in the eighth and down hosting Elk Grove, 5-3, with Keith Pecka going the route to gain the win.

Wild pitches also led to the undoing of the Grenadiers, who have now absorbed six straight setbacks in league play. Elk Grove sailed into the sixth owning a 3-2 lead but Rick Heredia walked for the Wildcats and toured the bases on three straight wild heaves to knot the game up and send it into overtime.

In the first extra frame John Miller and Jim Passolt walked and Bucky Black reached on an error. Pinch hitter Bill Knuth also was safe on a bobble, allowing Miller to tally and Bob Terreberry then walked, forcing in another run.

Miller also slammed out a solo homer to right center for the 'Cats in the fourth. Their other score came via a single by Larry Fry, a sacrifice and mishandled fly ball.

Singles by Kevin McCloughan and Joe Woelfel produced Elk Grove's first run. Tony Kees, Tom Curran and McCloughan all contributed base hits to a two-run Gren rally in the fourth.

Forced growth bad for puppies

Two renowned veterinary authorities have advised dog breeders to avoid "forcing" the growth of puppies and thus help their dogs achieve maturity with less possibility of health problems.

Speaking recently at the Gaines Dog Research Center's seminar for dog breeders in Harrisburg, Pa., both Dr. Francis A. Kallfelz of Cornell University and Dr. Sten-Erik Olsson of Sweden warned breeders that overfeeding practices leading to hastened growth can help produce a number of health problems for puppies in later life.

In discussing "Nutritional Management of the Growing Dog," Dr. Kallfelz told the more than 700 breeders at the day-long event that keeping young, immature dogs lean and hard was important to help prevent stress on the developing body. "Feeding a balanced diet in proper amounts gives the young dog time to develop properly," he noted.

Dr. Olsson, talking on "Osteochondrosis — A Serious Problem in Dog Breeding," observed that some structural defects in dogs can be traced in whole or part to feeding practices which force a dog to grow too quickly. "It is the responsibility of every breeder to allow the puppy to mature naturally," he stated.

Touring time —

Time to plan for vacation and if the entire family, including the dog, will be along, then "Touring With Towser" should be a must in the glove compartment.

The 64-page directory lists more than 4,000 independent hotel and motels in the United States and Canada that welcome guests with pets. The publication, compiled and printed as a service to dog owners by the Gaines Dog Research Center, also gives the names of 10 nationwide chains with 5,000 additional hotels and motels where guests with pets are welcome.

To obtain the directory, send 50 cents to Gaines TWT, P.O. Box 1007, Kankakee, Ill. 60901. You can retrieve the 50 cents by redeeming two coupons on the last page worth 25 cents each on the purchases of Gaines Top Choice dog food.

If you do travel with your dog, keep an eye on him when you are at a motel. Don't let him do something that will cause problems for the motel operator, thereby jeopardizing that "welcome" mat for those who follow.

Match and Specialties coming up —

There will be a Plan "A" match for Cairn Terriers on Saturday, June 12, at Pioneer Park, Arlington Heights, plus on the same date, a Doberman Pinscher specialty at the Buffalo Grove High School Field House, Buffalo Grove.

And again on June 12, the Chicago Miniature Schnauzer Club will hold its specialty at the Lake County Fairgrounds, Grayslake. It will be a busy weekend.

Barks & Bays —

Switzerland's largest automobile association has recommended that dogs wear safety belts while in autos to assure the "comfort, health and security" of dogs. Safety belts for humans are mandatory in the country.

Maine West holds share of top spot

Maine West held on to at least a share of first place in the Central Suburban League South with a 5-1 win over visiting Niles East Tuesday.

Rob Earhart won his third game of the year against no losses as he spun a two-hit shutout, striking out seven while walking only two.

The Warriors, now 3-1 in conference, host Niles North at 4:15 this afternoon. North was tied with the Warriors for the division lead pending outcome of North's game yesterday.

The Warriors scored all five runs in the fourth inning. Doug Unsicker singled in a pair, then was knocked home moments later on a single by Rick Sandri.

Glen Gustafson, running for Unsicker made it to third on yet another single, this one by Russ Kleisner. Gustafson then scored on the delayed steal, with Kleisner making it to second.

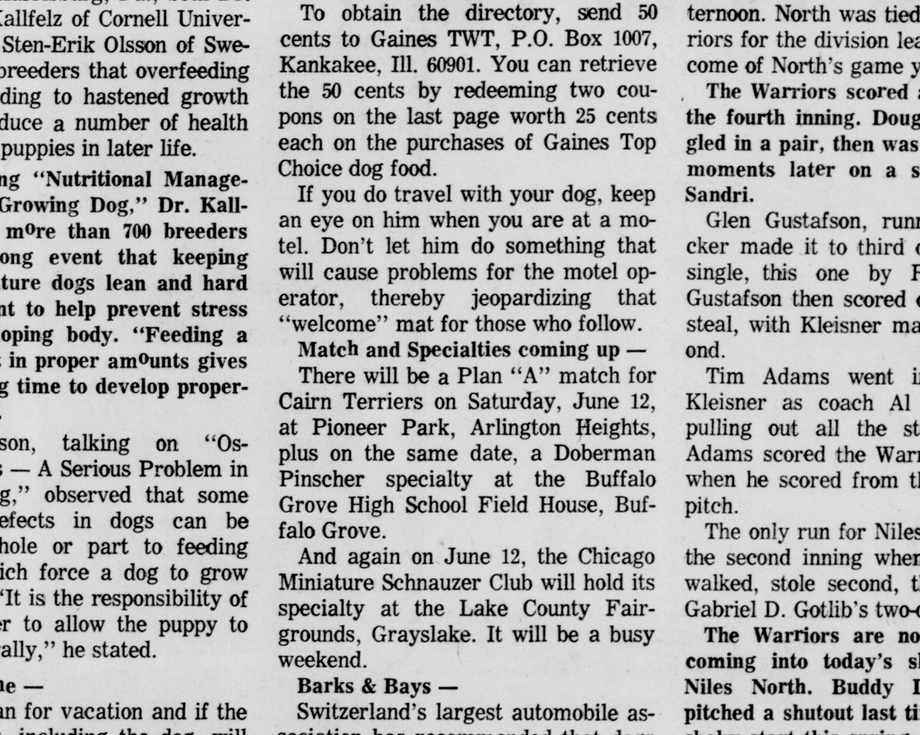

Tim Adams went into run from Kleisner as coach Al Carstens was pulling out all the stops for runs. Adams scored the Warriors' fifth run when he scored from third on a wild pitch.

The only run for Niles East came in the second inning when Mark Brines walked, stole second, then scored on Gabriel D. Gotlib's two-out single.

The Warriors are now 5-2 overall, coming into today's showdown with Niles North. Buddy Doroskin, who pitched a shutout last time out after a shaky start this spring, will be on the mound today for the Warriors.
